MEDICAL.

The Early Physical Degeneracy OF AMERICAN PEOPLE.

JUST PUBLISHED BY DR. STONE,

Physician to the Troy Lung and Hygienic Institute,

A Treatise on the Causes of Early Physical Decline of American People; the Cause of Nervous Debility, Consumption, and Marasmus.

This work is of a high moral tone, written in chaste yet thrilling language, and appeals directly to the moral consciousness of ALL, PARENTS AND GUARDIANS especially, detailing scientific and reliable aids and treatment for cure.

It will be sent by mail on receipt of two 3-cent stamps.

PARENTS AND GUARDIANS! fail not to send and obtain this book.

YOUNG MEN! fail not to send and get this book.

LADIES! you, too, should at once secure a copy of this book.

A Word of Solemn Conscientious Advice to those who will Reflect.

A class of maladies prevail to a fearful extent in community dooming at least 100,000 youth of both sexes annually to an early grave. These diseases are very imperfectly understood. Their external manifestations or symptoms are Nervous Debility, Relaxation, and Exhaustion; Marasmus or wasting and consumption of the tissues of the whole body; shortness of breathing or hurried breathing on ascending a hill or a flight of stairs, great palpitation of the Heart; Asthma, Bronchitis, and sore Throat; shaking of the Hands and Limbs; aversion to society and to business or study; dimness of Eyesight; loss of Memory; dizziness of the Head, Neuralgic Pains in various parts of the body; Pains in the Back or Limbs; Lumbago, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion; irregularity of the Bowels; deranged sections of the Kidneys and other glands of the body, as Leucorrhœa or Fleur Albus, &c.; likewise Epilepsy, Hysteria, and Nervous Spasms.

Now, in ninety-nine cases out of every one hundred all the above-named disorders, and a host of others not named, as Consumption of the Lungs, and the most insidious and wily form of Consumption of the Spinal Nerves known as Tabes Dorsales, and Tabes mesenterica, have their seat and origin in diseases of Pelvic Viscera. Hence the want of success on the part of old school practice in treating symptoms only.

Dr. Andrew Stone, Physician to the Troy Lung and Hygienic Institution, is now engaged in treating this class of modern maladies with the most astonishing success. The treatment adopted by the Institution is new; it is based upon scientific principles, with new discovered remedies, without minerals or poisons. The facilities of cure are such that patients can be cured at their homes, in any part of the country, from accurate description of their case, by letter, and have the medicines sent them by mail or express. Printed interrogatories will be forwarded on application.

Consumption, Catarrh, and diseases of the Throat cured as well at the homes of patients as at the Institution by sending the Cold Medicated Inhaling Balsamic Vapors, with inhaler, and ample directions for their use, and direct correspondence.

Patients applying for interrogatories or advice must enclose return stamps to meet attention.

The attending physician will be found at the Institution for consultation, from 9 A. M. to 9 P. M. of each day. Sundays in the forenoon.

MEDICAL.

EVERY FAMILY SHOULD HAVE A HYDRO MAGNETIC SIPHO, for the prevention and cure of all diseases of the Urinary and Seminal organs, the Kidneys, Stomach, and Bowels, and prevention of conception. This Sipho when used prevents and cures Nervous Debility, Costiveness, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Headache, Leucorrhœa or Whites, Prolapsus Uteri or Falling of the Womb, Obstructed Menstruation, and all complaints of the Urinal Organs, Kidneys, and bowels.

The Sipho enables all to prevent and cure disease, without recourse to drugs, herbs, pills, or nostrums. It is perfectly safe; it will last a lifetime without getting out of order, and never fails; it is simple, and can be used by a child. It acts magnetically and chemically, removing, absorbing, and destroying all morbid secretions and poisonous matter in the system. It is pleasant to use, imparts strength and life to the body, enlivens the spirits, imparts cheerfulness to the mind, and gives a tone and elasticity to all who use it, that will last for years. It enables those whose health and circumstances do not permit an increase of family, to regulate or limit their offspring, but must not be used during pregnancy, as it would produce miscarriage.

We send with each Sipho important private and confidential information for the Married and those contemplating marriage; also, full directions for its use.

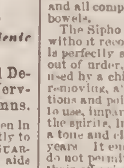
DR. HALL'S Louisville MEDICAL INFIRMARY,

CONDUCTED ON THE PLAN OF THE HOSPITAL DES VENERIENS, PARIS.



WHERE those afflicted with any form of Private Disease can receive prompt treatment without risk or exposure, viz: Syphilis, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Strictures, Ulcers, Tumors, Cancers, Secondary, and Constitutional Syphilis, Diseases of the Kidneys, etc. By this system it is proved that the venereal complaint is as entirely under the control of medicine as is a common cold or simple fever, and, while insufficient persons are daily sinking away their patients in hopeless [illegible], and giving them up only from their own incompetency, complete and permanent cures are constantly being effected at this Infirmary.

YOUNG MEN, TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.—Dr. H. devotes much of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by a secret habit which ruins both body and mind, unfitting the unfortunate individual for either business or society. The sad effects of these early habits, or the excess of riper years, are to weaken and debilitate the constitution, destroy the physical and mental powers, diminish and enfeeble the natural feelings, and exhaust the vital energies of manhood; the pleasures of life are marred, the object of marriage frustrated, and existence itself rendered a term of unceasing misery and regret. Such persons, especially those contemplating marriage, should lose no time in making immediate application, as Dr. H., by his new treatment, is enabled to insure a speedy and permanent cure.

DR. HALL'S AMERICAN PERIODICAL PILLS.—No article of medicine intended for the exclusive use of females has ever yet been introduced that has given such universal satisfaction as the American Periodical Pills. They can be relied on in all cases of Menstrual Obstructions, Irregularities, &c., as a sure and safe remedy. Price, per mail, $1 and one postage stamp.

Patients living at a distance can be cured at home by sending a description of their disease and inclosing a stamp.

T U R F OIL.

BIG ISLAND, Bedford, Va., Nov. 1, 1854.

Messrs. Dove & Co.—Gentlemen: I used about one-fourth of a bottle of your Turf Oil upon the back of my horse, the worst back I almost ever saw, entirely raw, a place nearly as large as my hand, and this single application (I only applied it once) cured it up entirely and permanently. I really was surprised at the quickness of its curative properties, and I think it more prompt and efficacious than anything of the kind I ever saw, and I have sold thousands of bottles of other preparations for similar purposes.
Respectfully, P BONDURANT.

SURRY COUNTY, VA., January, 1858.

Gentlemen: My old man, Billy, about 70 years of age while hewing sills with a broadaxe, split the calf of the leg open down to the bone, about 3 or 4 inches long, cutting an artery. It bled profusely for two days, and continued to bleed until cold and stiff. I had to give him hot brandy. I could not sew it up, but just saturated a piece of linen with your Turf Oil and laid it on the cut. I did not expect him, on account of his age, ever to be able to work again. I continued to dress the wound two or three weeks with the Turf Oil. In six weeks the cut was entirely well, and he was at work again.
Very respectfully, W. CLAIBORNE JONES.

ON the Infirmities of youth and maturity, disclosing the secret follies of both sexes of all ages, causing debility, nervousness, depression of spirits, palpitation of the heart, suicidal imaginations, involuntary blushings, defective memory, indigestion, and lassitude, &c., comprising 250 pages, and illustrated with upwards of one hundred and thirty engravings. It is a truthful adviser to the married and those contemplating marriage, who entertain secret doubts of their physical condition, and who are conscious of having hazarded the health, happiness, and privileges to which every human being is entitled. With Confessions of a Boarding School Miss, a College Student, and a Young Married Lady, full of romance and thrilling interest.

Young men who are troubled with weakness, generally caused by a bad habit in youth, the effects of which are dizziness, pains, forgetfulness, sometimes a ringing in the ears, weak eyes, weakness of the back and lower extremities, confusion of ideas, loss of memory, with melancholy, may be cured by the author's NEW PARIS AND LONDON TREATMENT.

We have for the greater part of the past year, devoted our time in VISITING THE EUROPEAN HOSPITALS, availing ourselves of the knowledge and researches of the most skilled Physicians and Surgeons in Europe and on the Continent—such men as CIVIALE, LENOIRE, RICORD, BRECHETEAU, ACTON, and CURLINGS, of the French and English hospitals. Our tour extended through France, Italy, Germany, Holland, England, Ireland, Scotland, and Wales visiting in our route the principal hospitals in Paris, London, Rome, Venice, Vienna, Dresden, Berlin, &c., &c. We have been amply repaid by the additional knowledge we have acquired in the treatment of various diseases to which we have directed our attention. Those who place themselves under our care will now have the full benefit of the many NEW AND EFFICIENT REMEDIES which we are enabled to introduce into our practice, and the public may rest assured of the same zeal, assiduity, SECRECY, and attention being paid to their cases, which has so successfully distinguished us heretofore as a Physician in our PECULIAR department of professional practice.

Medicines with full directions sent to any part of the United States or Canadas, by patients communicating their symptoms by letter. Business correspondence strictly confidential.

LIBERAL DONATIONS.—The will of the late Allen Ayrault, of Geneseo, bequeaths to Geneva College, $20,000; American Bible Society, $10,000; Episcopal Missionary Society, $5,000. A very handsome property is bequeathed to his widow and adopted niece. After all these bequests have been paid and various unsettled matters are disposed of, the will directs that whatever may remain of the estate shall be disposed of as follows: two-fifths to Geneva College, two-fifths to the American Bible Society, and one-fifth to the Missionary Society above mentioned. At a moderate estimate of the value of the estate, it is thought that the "two-fifths" to Geneva College and to the Bible Society will amount to at least $40,000 each. Should this estimate prove correct, Geneva College will receive from the estate of the deceased, including $40,000 given only a few months since, the large sum of $70,000.

BRUTAL CONDUCTOR.—A brutal conductor on the Grand Trunk line recently ejected Joseph Crevier from the train, while on the road in motion, because he had ridden beyond his paid destination. The body of the young man was found frozen, and an inquest called, but the whole matter was hushed up, no one knows why.

THE CAT OUT OF THE BAG.—The Raleigh (N. C.) Standard, after quoting the article of the Charleston Mercury which expresses its dissatisfaction with the doings of the Montgomery Convention, says:

We regard the remarks above given as proof conclusive of two things—first, that South Carolina left the Union in order to secure absolute free trade and the re-opening of the African slave trade; and, second, that the adoption of the United States Constitution by the provisional government, and the prohibition of the African slave trade, will be a bait to catch the slaveholding States yet remaining in the Union, and to bring them into the Southern Confederacy. After giving its reasons for its dissatisfaction at the provision prohibiting the re-opening of the African slave trade, the Mercury says: "But the Constitution is only provisional and temporary, and may, therefore, be excusable on that account." That is to say that when the slaveholding States yet in the Union shall have left it, and joined the Southern Confederacy, then a permanent constitution, which shall prohibit a tariff, and provide that the government shall be supported by direct taxation, and be silent on the subject of the African slave trade, will be formed. You now see, fellow citizens of North Carolina, the trap set for you by the Cotton State Confederacy. The Mercury, in its wrath against the tariff of 1857, and the prohibition of the African slave trade by the provisional constitution, has let the cat out of the bag.

CHARLESTON GOSSIP.—The Charleston correspondent of the New York Times wrote as follows on the 18th inst:

I have just returned from a visit to the famous floating-battery or raft, which is now entirely completed, and will be launched at the first favorable tide. There have been so many crude ideas concerning this novel weapon, and such ridiculous ideas concerning its real object, that a genuine and positive statement of its powers and purposes will, of course, be interesting. It may be relied upon, as I had it direct from a leading person employed in the construction of the new military leviathan.

Your readers will please imagine a huge box, 46 by 80 feet, pierced for a sufficient number of rifled cannon, and with a roof covered with three thick plates of the best sheet iron, and rendered perfectly bomb proof. It will draw with the armament and the complement of men—three hundred—only four feet. At a judicious time or turn of the tide, it will be floated down with the aid of two steam tugs, to a point on the land or inner side of Fort Sumter, distant just 600 yards. At such a proximity, Major Anderson's guns, they say, cannot be depressed, and thus secure from his terrible columbiads, &c., they will pepper away at the weak part facing Morris and James Islands, until they effect an entrance, or, militarily speaking, make a breach. Thus, having him at advantage, with the Cummins's Point batteries, now immensely strong, shelling him; with Moultrie's fearful cannonading also, now a terrible customer; with James Island, too, pouring in the iron rain, they think the little band at Sumter will be very likely the poor fly that became completely entangled in the meshes of the spider. It is my deliberate impression that, with the extraordinary activity that has been displayed since I left my letters, that Major Anderson will be annihilated utterly when they do commence.

Some grim customers of eleven inch bore have just been received here, and they will be mounted within a week. The twelve Armstrong guns that I have before alluded to are now on their way, and will probably arrive by the 1st of March.

During my two weeks' absence I find there has been a change, both in the hopes and fears of the community. The formation of the Provisional Government at Montgomery relieved the Republic of the necessity of attacking Fort Sumter immediately upon Col. Hayne's return, while it has also enabled them to perfect their preparations for that which they all say will be done—preparations, let me repeat, which are now formidable in the extreme. Their fears spring not from any personal terror, as the North know full well, but they think that the speech of the Northern President elect, at the capital of Indiana, is an ominous threat of what he will do when he seizes the Presidential reins. Following my intention of speaking truthfully as I hear, I am forced to state that the very manner of Mr. Lincoln's utterance rendered his words all the more obnoxious. Not daring, as they observe, to directly declare that he would, under all circumstances, attempt to coerce, he speaks out the idea under the unmanly cover of pretending to assume if the South did so and so, wouldn't we be authorized to re-claim our own, &c." That speech has fired up even the most lukewarm here, and the steel now is longing to leap from every scabbard.

THE LUNCH EATING SECESSIONISTS OF NEW ORLEANS.—The following extract from a private letter, dated New Orleans, Feb. 11th, gives, we have no doubt, a very faithful sketch of the secession mob which now controls New Orleans:

They are all down here for fight, and there are more soldiers, and Colonels, and Generals, and Captains, than you ever saw. The most of them have lived on lunch for the last eight years to my certain knowledge, but are now fed on pork and beans by the State, and begin to look fat.

LATER FROM HONDURAS.—By the schooner Dew Drop, which arrived at New Orleans on Saturday from Ruatan Island the 12th inst., we have dates from Honduras to the 10th:

A new political revolution, originating with the clerical or reactionary party, was impending. The moving cause of it was the late treaty with Great Britain for the surrender of the Bay Islands, in which it was stipulated that Honduras should pay to the Mosquito King five thousand dollars annually for the education of those people in the Protestant faith.

Several of the officers of the government, among them the President, Guardiola, had already been excommunicated by the head of the church at Comayagua.

From Ruatan there is nothing new. The English will hold possession of it, but there were indications of a speedy surrender of the Island to Honduras, in accordance with the treaty.

Formal application had been made to the Government of Honduras to permit the remains of the late General Walker to be removed to the United States. The reply was that the Minister of the Republic in Washington had been fully instructed on the subject, and applications should be made to him.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED.—The Natchez Courier of the 19th inst. says:

Mr. Robert Moore, of Jefferson county, we regret to learn, was accidentally killed last Friday evening, near the residence of his brother-in-law, Wade Harrison, Esq., in Jefferson county. He was thrown from his horse while crossing a bridge about a mile and a half from Mr. Harrison's, and falling between the timbers of the bridge, or caught by them, he remained all the night, being found dead early the next morning. Both his arms were broken. He evidently was unable to escape himself from his position, and perhaps died through the exposure. The night was cold and stormy.

[From the London Herald, Feb. 5.]

WILL A BLOCKADE OF THE SOUTHERN PORTS BE RECOGNIZED BY ENGLAND?—War in Europe, whether engaged in or not by this country, places us, by the treaty of Paris, upon the level of those nations who have no mercantile marine, and is fraught with the gravest dangers to the well being of society, and to the power and dignity of the State.

The United States, so long as they cohered, felt strong enough to stand aloof from the public law of Europe; but the secession movement, besides opening up a door for the treaty of Paris being revived, and made, without exception, the law of nations, is likely to raise questions of international right, in which we shall have the deepest interest. The United States Government was originally founded upon certain delegated powers, by a community of sovereign States, who have still exercised their independent sovereignty, and it is held by the seceding States that the delegated powers may now be withdrawn. If we assent to this right, we may claim admission to the Southern ports to carry merchandise, on the European principle of free ships making free goods; while, if we deny the right, we shall, no doubt, exclude ourselves from the Southern trade.

Which course shall we take, and will the opportunity be now embraced of asserting those maritime rights which we as a maritime power should, in the interest of the trading classes of these kingdoms, and with the still higher object of the security of the nation, claim to hold? If we are possessed of maritime power and some other nations are not, it will be quite as prudent to pause before we tie our hands, as for France or any other continental power to hesitate to reduce their armies to the level of the forces of a third or fourth rate nation. So long as the ship owners were the only sufferers, the final settlement of the question could be deferred; but impending war in the United States, and threatened war in the Baltic, demand an immediate settlement in the interest of all classes.

Had the United States accepted the treaty of Paris, so far as that treaty had reference to the law of nations, the fourth article of the treaty would require that a blockade of the cotton ports by the United States ships of war would have to be maintained by a sufficient force. The United States Government could not, in that case, establish the blockade, and the first article of the treaty would be a bar to the employment of privateers. The supply of cotton would therefore be uninterrupted under the treaty of Paris by an appeal to arms. As the case stands, however, it is impossible to say what expedients Mr Lincoln's Cabinet may resort to to destroy the commerce of the South.

It is a recognized principle for the belligerents to declare what is contraband of war; and besides the material which the Southern States may seek to draw from Europe, what is to prevent cotton being subject to capture by privateers, should such vessels be fitted out? What, in fact, is to prevent the United States repudiating the neutral doctrine altogether, and taking their stand upon the broad old English principle of maritime right, and declaring that the neutral flag does not cover Southern goods, and that neutral goods under the Southern flag are liable to capture? To recognize the Treaty of Paris would now be to make the Northern States of the American Union powerless on the ocean, and the time has come when we must consider whether adherence on our part to that treaty would not make us powerless on the ocean also.

EXTREME POLITENESS OF THE RUSSIANS.—Perhaps the most polite, observant, bowing and bending nation of the world, is Russia. To one who has a liking for these matters, quite a lesson to see a Russian nobleman of the high school in conversation with any one; he is the beau ideal of good manners and gentlemanly bearing; he takes off his hat to every woman, bows his head to a tradesman, he salutes him when he enters his shop, he bows when he goes. Princes of the blood Imperial do this.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 27, 1861.

☞The Courier professes to be greatly scandalized at the suggestion of one of our correspondents, that, if a Revolutionary Convention should undertake in hot haste to drag or thrust Kentucky out of the Union, the undertaking ought to be resisted by force, if necessary. The Courier professes to be scandalized at this suggestion, but the Courier made no such profession when a month ago the secessionists at Frankfort and elsewhere in the State were threatening loudly that if the Legislature didn't inaugurate revolution it should be inaugurated in spite of the Legislature and at all hazards. The organ of secession amongst us, like kindred organs in the seceding States, objects to force only when it is to be employed for the maintenance of the laws instead of their overthrow and destruction. The Courier has nothing to say against mobocracy, but everything to say against resistance to that most insolent and degrading of tyrannies. We own that our sympathies in this matter are exactly the reverse of the Courier's. And herein we think the freemen of Kentucky and all other unperverted freemen agree with us.

As for the special suggestion of our correspondent, we at present have merely to say, that, whilst the right of the minority to resist the lawless domination of the majority is clear and perfect, the expediency of exercising the right is a question which cannot be wisely decided in advance of the actual emergency. Until the emergency occurs in Kentucky, if it ever shall occur, which God forbid, the broaching of this solemn question of expediency can be useful only as a warning to the headlong revolutionists in the midst of us, if indeed such a warning is required, that Kentuckians, come what may, will be neither coerced nor bullied out of their sacred rights of American citizenship. In this point of view, not as a threat in the least degree but as the answer to a most brazen and shameless threat, we commend the suggestion of our correspondent to the best reflection of the Courier and its domestic coadjutors in the work of national destruction.

☞The Southern Confederacy Congress has adopted substantially the constitution of the United States, with the remarkable exception that the seceders act under their authority as commissioners of their respective sovereign States, while the immortal instrument framed by Washington, Sherman, Hamilton, Franklin, Morris, Madison, Blair, Rutledge, the Pinckneys, and their compeers, was ordained and established as the act of "the People of the United States." This difference revives the whole question between a federal plan of government or a national one, which led to a protracted debate in the Constitutional Convention of 1787, and finally was decided in favor of the position assumed by Edmund Randolph and Charles Pinckney, delegates from Virginia and South Carolina, which was a national government, with three supreme co-ordinate branches, executive, legislative, and judiciary. After the articles of confederation were found to be inefficient, the various States passed acts authorizing the appointment of delegates to that Constitutional Convention. Virginia, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Georgia, and Maryland empowered them to join with the other delegates "in devising and discussing such alterations and further provisions as may be necessary to render the Federal constitution adequate to the exigencies of the Union." North Carolina and New Hampshire proposed "to discuss and decide upon the most effectual means to remove the defects of the Federal Union, and to procure the enlarged purposes which it was intended to effect." South Carolina commissioned her delegates "to join in devising and discussing all such alterations, clauses, articles, and provisions as may be thought necessary to render the Federal Constitution entirely adequate to the actual situation and future good government of the Confederated States." The Northern States of New Jersey, New York, Massachusetts, and Connecticut all looked to action "adequate to the exigencies of the government and the preservation of the Union," and this last phraseology was adopted in Congress on February 21st, 1787, in the resolution for the convention to revise the articles of confederation, out of which grew the present Federal Constitution. Seventy-four years have rolled by, and it is the opinion of some that it is again necessary, in order to render that Federal Constitution entirely adequate to the actual situation and future good government of the United States, to meet in convention and discuss such alterations, clauses, articles, and provisions as may be necessary. Why cannot every State in the Union assent to this: why cannot South Carolina, which has taken the lead in opposing it, recall the action of her fathers in ratifying the Federal Constitution in 1788? We find a communication in the Philadelphia Press which bears directly upon that action, covers, as the writer says, the whole and real ground of dispute at the present moment, and abundantly shows the spirit and scope of the controversy in the beginning, and stands out in strong contrast with the ruling speeches of South Carolina to-day. However much at variance in opinion the members of the South Carolina Legislature may have been in 1788, they never gave themselves up to a wild and reckless passion; they treated the question, as well as their opponents, with dignity, and the men who now put forward excuses for their attitude to the country may do well to pause; they will perceive that a path has been beaten by their fathers, and if they have not grown altogether deaf to the voice of reason they will follow in it, and thus save themselves from becoming entangled among briars and thorns. The writer in the Press asks whether the present pretexts, put forward for a dissolution of the Union, consist in distinct interests and a supposed antagonism in questions of State sovereignty over the Federal head, or a right of secession at pleasure, or a quarrel with the Declaration of Independence, or with the Constitution, and he undertakes to answer such pretexts by quoting from the mouths of the best men of South Carolina, who debated in her own halls in 1788—men, whose memory no son of that State regards more highly than the whole country. In transferring these extracts to our paper, in another column, we place before our readers much more cogent arguments than we could have presented before the interesting communication to the Press met our eye. Let the noble sentiments of those who signed the Declaration of Independence, aided to frame the Federal Constitution, and were the foremost men of South Carolina in 1788, speak for the whole Union in 1861.

☞The Federal Government has yearly expended millions to defend Texas against the incursions of the Indians and to defray the very heavy expenses of her postal service and of the defence of her commerce, and yet, as a pretext for secession, she alleges that the Government has done little or nothing for her. We wonder how much more the new Government, in the service of which she has enrolled herself, will do for her. How many more millions will it expend for her benefit? Has she any satisfactory assurances upon that interesting point?

We believe there is not one of the seven seceding States in which the postal revenue has paid the postal expenses. Of course those States are hardly in a first-rate condition to pay each others' deficiencies. We think, that Texas, like a very great ass, whilst munching the oats of the Federal Government, has twirled her long ears in a very ridiculous fashion, and knocked her brains out against the trough.

☞We are confident that there will be no merely factious opposition to Mr. Lincoln's administration except on the part of the enemies of the Union. All true patriots will judge him fairly and candidly but watch him vigilantly.

☞A Georgia paper says that Southern soldiers can always stand fire. No doubt of that, and the secession leaders, most undeniably, can stand fire—and steal.

☞It is said that the South Carolina soldiers don't get enough to eat. They don't much like war-fare. Can't they cook their palmettos and rattle-snakes?

☞Secessionism in Virginia seems now to be in the charge of the light-headed Wise and the light-fingered Floyd.

☞Brigham Young is said to be a lean man, but it wouldn't be easy to count his ribs.

☞The recent speech of Louis Napoleon in opening the French Chambers contains a passage to which the people of the Border slaveholding States of the Union might give heed with eminent profit. The Emperor says to the Senators and Deputies of France:

The first virtue of a people is to have confidence in itself, and not allow itself to be disturbed by imaginary alarms. Let us then calmly regard the future in the full consciousness of our strength, as well as in our honorable intentions.

This is wise counsel, founded on a sound maxim; but the maxim is not more sound or the counsel more wise for France than for the United States. Nay, as we have intimated, both are at this moment particularly just in relation to that portion of the United States that lies along the southern border of the slave line,—so just, that, if they shall be but observed by the States of that region, the Union cannot perish, but will ere long be rescued peaceably from all peril. Heaven grant that they may be faithfully observed. Assuredly they ought to be.

We should, men of the Border, "have confidence" in ourselves, "and not allow" ourselves "to be disturbed by imaginary alarms." It is our first duty to cultivate this noble frame of spirit, as the possession of it is "the first virtue of a people." "Let us, then, calmly regard the future in the full consciousness of our strength, as well as in our honorable intentions."

☞It is understood that the great difficulty in the Peace Conference is, generally, the Territorial question, and that the great difficulty in the Territorial question is, particularly, the point of future territorial acquisitions,—one party insisting that the settlement shall anticipate and include such acquisitions, the other party insisting that it shall not. How the members of the Conference are distributed with respect to this matter, we of course do not know; but, among prominent gentlemen at Washington outside of the body, Mr. Crittenden, we know, is one who avows a willingness to say nothing about future acquisitions. He declares that he will not insist upon the extension of the settlement to such acquisitions. On the other hand, Mr. Breckinridge, we believe, does insist upon this. He still regards it indispensable to a satisfactory adjustment. It will be seen, however, from the declaration of the Breckinridge organ of Maryland which we publish elsewhere to-day, that the friends of the Vice-President are not all with him in this matter. The views of his Maryland organ on the point are sound and forcibly put. We invite the public to consider them.

☞We republish the following precious paragraph from the Huntsville (Alabama) Independent of February 10th:

TENNESSEE.—With deep sorrow, and the most sad forebodings for her future, we are forced to announce that our sister State Tennessee has resolved not to call even a Convention of her people in the present crisis. Her Legislature must now see the folly of submitting the question of Convention or no Convention to the popular vote. Thousands upon thousands of her people, and we speak with no disrespect of the intelligence of the State, did not and could not know whether there was a necessity for calling a Convention or not.

There spoke secessionism in its purest essence! We know not how others may regard this mobbish tyranny, this vulgar despotism, but we own it excites in us only the most unutterable scorn and abhorrence.

Does it become freemen anywhere to submit tamely to a usurpation thus degrading and detestable?

☞Not a few of the Cotton Men who opposed most vigorously the secession of their own States are now we see among the most vigorous advocates of the secession of States not their own. Their conduct is exceedingly natural but equally irrational. It reminds us vividly of the fox with his tail cut off, touching which unhappy representative animal, as our readers may remember, La Fontaine fabulizes thus:

One day that the foxes in council were met,
Why wear we, said he, this cumbering weight,
Which sweeps in the dirt wherever it goes?
Pray tell me its use, if any one knows.
If the council will take my advice,
We shall dock off our tails in a trice.
Your advice may be good, said one on the ground;
But, ere I reply, pray turn yourself round;
Whereat such a shout from the council was heard,
Poor bob-tail, confounded, could say not a word.
To urge the reform would have wasted his breath:
LONG TAILS WERE THE MODE TILL THE DAY OF HIS DEATH.

☞We fear that the time is at hand when there will be an utter breaking up of all mail transportation between the two sections in this country. Unless the existing troubles shall be adjusted, the period, we have little doubt, will soon come, when the government of the non-seceding States will forbid letters and papers addressed to individuals in the seceding States to be carried in its mails a single mile through any part of its own territory, and when the government of the seceding States will adopt a similar policy.

☞The expiring Administration, as a contemporary says, has sucked the Treasury dry, ruined the Public Credit, left Indian War, Choctaw, and other claims, to the amount of many millions, hanging over the Government, and allowed its confidential agents to steal Trust Funds, and issue bogus certificates of Treasury indebtedness, to the amount of millions more. Never, since the close of the war of 1812, were the Federal finances so utterly collapsed and ruined as they are to-day.

☞When two caravans meet in the interior of Africa, the two head men approach each other, then go back a reasonable distance, lower their heads and butt. The one that goes down has to yield the right of way to the caravan who "downs" him. Perhaps this would be us good a way as any for President Lincoln and President Davis to settle the sectional difficulties.

☞Mr. Thurlow Weed, of the Albany Evening Journal, the shrewdest and most influential of all the Republican leaders of New York, says that if the Presidential election were now to be held over again in that State, Mr. Lincoln would be beaten by a majority of 100,000.

☞Mr. Spratt, of Charleston, says that the Southern Confederacy will never acquire its true position until, by importations from Africa, the number of slaves shall be at least equal to the number of whites. He insists that every white man, woman, and child, shall have his, her, and its nigger.

☞Texas doesn't vote upon her secession ordinance till next Saturday. But she has already stolen the United States property. Everywhere in the Cotton States stealing goes before secession—and is the less discreditable act of the two.

☞The fact that the secession officeholders are sending in their resignations to take effect on the 4th of March doesn't afford the slightest evidence that they wouldn't be delighted to hold office under Mr. Lincoln—if they could.

☞If the Cotton States have no more difficulty in bearing their pecuniary burdens than their organs say they have, why are they talking about an export duty on cotton—a thing hitherto undreamed of upon this continent?

☞A New York paper thinks, that, if Mr. Buchanan's Jerry Black were to assume the judicial robes on a bench where Marshall and Story have sat, it would be a flagrant case of contempt of court.

☞The secession party laughs at the emptiness of the U. S. Treasury. That party supplied from its own ranks the government officers who emptied the Treasury by the stealing of millions.

☞A contemporary says "the Southern republic finds itself between the devil and the deep sea." Yes, and, full of the one, it will run "violently down a steep place" into the other.

☞Robert Lincoln, a son of "Old Abe," is said to be a precious chap. We suppose his friends will soon be calling him "Bob-o'-Link."

☞The Southern Government, it is said, intends flying its Keitt to a foreign country.

☞Here are some patriotic lines from a patriotic heart and pen:

[For the Louisville Journal.]

TWENTY-SECOND OF FEBRUARY.

Dedicated to all who love the memory of Washington.

BY S. C. MERCER.

Hero, whose ashes sleep
By Vernon's sacred steep,
Sire of the free!
To-day thy name be blessed
North, South, and East, and West,
And swell each patriot breast
With love to thee.

Through tempests drear and dark
The Union's holy ark
Thy hand did guide;
The ark which rode the flood
Of Revolution's blood,
For freedom's mighty God,
Was on thy side.

Where'er thy eagles flew
The world our glory knew
In war and peace,
Safe 'neath the fig and vine
Our fathers did recline,
And field and wave and mine
Gave rich increase.

Oh that to-day might yield
Once more the sword and shield
Of Washington!
Then freedom's songs sublime
Should peal in thrilling chime
And, 'till remotest time,
THE STATES BE ONE.

HOPKINSVILLE, Feb. 18, 1861.

TO THE BORDER STATES.

MEMPHIS, Feb. 20, 1861.

To the Editors of the Louisville Journal:

If it were to be avowed that this Union should be broken for no other reason than to build up a separate confederacy, how many advocates among the people, North or South, would sustain the proposition?

If the Gulf State secession leaders were to ask their constituents to meet the North in national conference, that the people of the sections might see and hear each other, with a view to a final, substantial, and peaceful settlement of matters of contention among them, what proportion of those citizens would refuse the proposition?

The seceded States profess to have gone into revolution, (and the majority of their people believe the profession to be true,) not because they are dissatisfied with our present constitution; by no means this; but for the reason that they are satisfied with it; only complaining that its provisions are violated. Hence their bogus government is even now based upon it.

The love for and admiration of the Federal Law is the strongest sentiment of the American heart.

But the truth evidently is that the litigious sections are in the hands of pettifoggers; of professional politicians who feed upon the oyster and who would content their silly and heated clients with the shells. If the litigants could meet in person, after a fair and calm talk, would they not be ashamed of the dangerous difficulty into which they have drawn their father's legacy?

Now the darling object of the original secession leaders is that of a new Empire; it is that of unholy selfishness; in them it is the vilest and most unblushing treason. The people have only to discover this to flee from them as from the infernal Tempter.

Grant, if you please, men of the Border States, the whole secession argument. Grant that inasmuch as the Lincoln canvass was conducted on the issue of the "higher law" and "irrepressible conflict," that therefore (notwithstanding the falsity of such conclusion as evinced in the political complexion of the majority of Congress) the verdict of the North has been hostile and sectional to such a degree as to have justified an alarm in the Gulf States to the extent of its present form in action, including their whole status, captured forts, violated mails, and mint seizures, and the like. Is there any argument herein (short of downright conspiracy) that precludes the conference of the North and the South in national convention, from the respective status of each section, with a view to reconstruction?

I respectfully and emphatically put the above question to the reflecting men of the Border States, convinced that all such, who are patriotic and dispassionate, will concur; and that the concurrence will favor the conclusion that—misrepresented and heated as the sections have been to and towards each other through the agitations of a desperate canvass for the offices and spoils of the government in which the politicians have raked the very fires of Hell for the flames of excitement—it will be but just to the whole country and to the final decision of the most momentous things of this century, that such a conference shall be holden before proceeding to greater extremes.

Now, if I have apprehended the temper of the Border States (of course I do not expect to include the allies of the conspirators who taint the Border States), then it is earnestly asked by the writer if an argument, wholly irresistible, is not thereby furnished to force these States to maintain their places inflexibly within the Union, until the last Constitutional remedy for reconstruction shall have been exhausted?

I will not take as an objection to my last query, that the Union position of the Border States stands in the way of Northern concession—that it strengthens the hands of the coercion and no-compromise men of the North. I will not receive such an objection to my argument, because it is manifestly false! The entire North comprehend that the status of the Border States is set immovably against coercion, and determinately in favor of some reasonable constitutional enactments, whereby the rights of the South shall be affirmed beyond the reach of future misconstruction or encroachment. And, gentlemen of Kentucky, on this issue, you (at present) have friends as firm, as resolute, and as influential in the North as exist among yourselves. The great Union party of the North is with you. A party now the strongest in that section, and whose power the Republicans dare not brave—unless the mad conduct of the South shall dissolve their ranks—for they cannot be expected to fight beneath the flag of treason!

If this view of the subject be correct (and it appears to me that it cannot be truthfully assailed), then it follows that the integrity of the Union, that all our hopes rest upon Kentucky and Tennessee—not for the reason that her sisters, Virginia, Missouri, and Maryland, are doubted—not for this do I make this selection of States, but to illustrate the power which these two sovereignties hold over the destinies of this nation. Shall this power be exercised in full view of the solemn interests at stake; in the light of a clear conscience before God and man; in the pure and sublime spirit which gave birth to the Union of these States? Almighty Father! grant that such may prove to be the case!

When that spirit gave birth to this Union, how gently the dove of compromise brooded over all the budding hopes of this now magnificent nation! Are we not the same people? Assuredly we are; corrupted only by the vermin of the voyage. Our interests have assumed new shapes, and especially that of slave labor, which was then so odious as a question of political economy, and whose estate was not so ameliorated as now it is. The large mass of the Northern people, educated in the old faith, have yet to comprehend the incorporated interest of slavery, as also its grand ameliorations; and the unanswerable facts of its necessity for reasons of climate, and because of the existence of the two races, one of which must absolutely control. Cramped as their intelligence is on this topic by natural hereditary prejudices, fostered by the machinery of party they do not see, as they might, that God has so ordained it on this continent that free and slave labor cannot compete, and therefore that the spread of slave labor cannot interfere with the prosperity of white emigration. When this shall be comprehended aright by the reasoning mind of the North, they will not regard the South as a usurping oligarchy (as their politicians and as Southern Congressional bullies have taught them to do); but as humane, high-toned, and industrious citizens, who feed, clothe, and protect a wretched, entailed, and incapable inferior race whom they force to the discharge of suitable labor, whose product gives to America her commercial prestige. They will remember that the fugitive slave law was drawn up in Washington's time by a Massachusetts man (Mr. Cabot), and that it passed without division in the Senate, and had recorded against it but seven votes in the House—a law far more rigid and irresponsible than now exists.

Ah, gentlemen of the Journal, trust me that an assemblage of our people would call to mind all the advantages which our blessed Constitution has conferred. The North will then remember that its commercial policy, which is its glory, was conceded to it by the non-commercial people of the South, by those discriminating tonnage duties which, keeping off foreign bottoms, presents its magnificent mercantile fleets, under the American flag, on every sea. New England will remember what gave her her exclusive right to the coasting trade from State to State, on the Atlantic and around Cape Horn to the Pacific. She will not wish that the South and Southwest shall repeal this law, and so throw open this privilege to the commercial nations of Europe, who can do it cheaper. And thus, one by one, will the memories and glories of our grand Constitution, its strength and protection, its dignity, its concessions, its nationality, unfold themselves to such an assembly, until, animated by the spirit of their Fathers, they will rise to the sublime stature of Americans. And then the old Constitution will rebaptize her sons, and the old flag will be flung to the breeze amid shouts that shall rend the welkin. The national airs will be sung anew, and prized as precious jewels snatched from a conflagration. The prodigal son will return to his father's house, and the fatted calf will be killed. Truly, ever yours, B.

FUTURE TERRITORIAL ACQUISITIONS.—We are glad to observe on every hand, says the National Intelligencer of the 16th, a disposition to promote the accommodation of pending dissensions by the withdrawal of topics which tend needlessly to complicate a settlement of outstanding questions. As the main point of difference which seems to lie in the way of a speedy and satisfactory adjustment relates to the disposition that shall be made of the "common territory," the subjoined practical suggestions of our able Democratic contemporary, the Baltimore Exchange, should commend themselves to the candid consideration of such among the political confederates of that journal as have been heretofore disposed to insist on stipulations for the government of "territory to be hereafter acquired." We quote from the Exchange of yesterday:

We have taken occasion to say decidedly heretofore, and we again urge the suggestion as a timely one now, that the settlement of the national difficulties ought not, in our opinion, to be embarrassed by a demand for guarantees of any sort in regard to territory hereafter to be acquired. We do not rest this opinion upon the mere ground that present evils are sufficient for the day which has to deal with them, because it is the part of statesmanship to foresee and provide against future evils as well. Neither do we confine ourselves by any means to the view so forcibly put by Mr. Adams, of Massachusetts, as to the madness of fighting among ourselves "because we cannot agree upon the mode of disposing of our neighbors' lands." If it is to be part of our policy to acquire the lands of our neighbors, it would be but statesmanlike to have some understanding as to the mode in which they are to be disposed of when acquired. For ourselves we mean distinctly to say that we are utterly opposed to any policy which contemplates or will encourage such future acquisitions at all, and we would not, as matter of choice, desire any arrangement which would keep alive the theory or spirit of such a policy or offer any temptation whatever to its development. We believe that the nation has more than enough territory already. We are painfully conscious of the extent to which our present dangers have been the result of territorial acquisitions made heretofore. We consider filibusterism in every shape—whether naked and shameless or in the guise of purchase from those whom we would force to sell—as disgraceful to our national character, and at war with the whole theory and principles of our Government. We, therefore, desire to see no bait held out to it under any pretext, or in any form; and, believing that a provision, now deliberately and formally made, for the terms upon which future acquisitions shall be enjoyed by our people, will furnish a temptation and encouragement to propagandists upon both sides to promote such acquisitions by foray and intrigue in all time to come, we prefer to see the subject dropped entirely and filibusterism of every sort left to all the discouragement which the uncertainty of its results will be sure to entail.

We do not mean to say that the obvious wisdom of withdrawing one serious question from the many embarrassing ones which surround the solution of our difficulties is not a powerful consideration in itself, and does not add immensely, at the present time, to the force of the views which we have expressed. We would not be understood as denying the propriety, in such a crisis as this, of letting the future take care of itself, if the consideration of its anticipated difficulties would prevent the adjustment of those which are instant and upon us. Nor do we abate, on the other hand, one jot or tittle of our adherence to the doctrine of the equality of the States, as expounded by the Supreme Court. We only desire to express our convictions against the policy of territorial acquisition, in itself simply as a policy, and even if its introduction into our pending disputes would not complicate or embitter them. It is and always has been our deliberate judgment that it is the true policy of the United States, and their high duty towards the adjacent nations of this continent, to encourage, protect, and develop them, instead of despoiling and dividing them. If, in place of fostering their dissensions, invading their territory, and demoralizing or slaying their people, we had gone among them with the arts of peace and civilization—persuading and, if need be, compelling them to cease intestine strife—what would be their condition now? As a fulfilment of our own true republican mission, how infinitely nobler would be our position in regard to them before the world and in history!

We are, therefore, quite ready to accept Mr. Crittenden's original resolution on the Territorial question without Mr. Breckinridge's interpretation, and we are gratified to see that Mr. Crittenden himself has expressed the same willingness. Nay, we have no objection whatever to the Faneuil Hall resolutions, which, while they propose to extend the settlement to territory hereafter to be acquired, propose at the same time to prohibit such future acquisitions, unless three-fourths of the States assent to their being made. We believe that the people of Maryland would heartily approve of such a settlement, and we repeat our own conviction that they have no interest which it would not serve.

SOUTH CAROLINA IN 1788.—The following are the extracts from debates in the South Carolina Legislature, pending the discussion on the ratification of the Federal Constitution, to which we have referred in our editorial columns, as having appeared in the Philadelphia Press:

The Hon. Robert Barnwell replied: "As to the objections that the Eastern States entertained the greatest aversion to those which lay to the South, and would endeavor in every instance to oppress them. This idea he considered as founded in prejudice, and unsupported by facts."

Charles Pinckney said: "Another distinguished feature in our Union is its division into individual States, differing in extent of territory, manners, population, and products. Those who are acquainted with the Eastern States, the reason of their original migration, and their pursuits, habits, and principles, well know that they are essentially different from those of the Southern and Middle States, that they retain all those opinions respecting religion and government which first induced their ancestors to cross the Atlantic; and that they are, perhaps, more purely republican in habit and sentiment than any other part of the Union."

The Hon. Edward Rutledge said: "The very idea of power included a possibility of doing harm; and if the gentleman would show the power that could do no harm, he would at once discover it to be a power which could do no good."

Hon. Charles Pinckney repeated, "that the necessity of having a government which should at once operate upon the people, and not upon the States, was considered to be indispensable by every delegate present; that, however they may have differed in respect to the quantum of power, no objection was made to the system itself."

"For his part, he confessed that he had ever treated all fears of aristocracies or despotisms in the Federal head as the most childish chimeras that could be conceived. In a Union extensive as this is composed of so many State Governments and inhabited by a people characterized, as our citizens are, by an impatience under any act which looks like an infringement of their rights, an invasion of them by the federal head appeared to him the most remote of all our public dangers." "The State Governments will too naturally slide into an opposition against the General one, and be easily induced to consider themselves as rivals. They will, after a time, resist the collection of a revenue; and if the General Government is obliged to concede in the smallest degree on this point, they will of course neglect their duties and despise its authority. A great degree of weight and energy is necessary to enforce it, nor is anything to be apprehended from them." "He could not conceive that either the dignity of a government could be maintained, its safety insured, or its laws administered, without a body of regular forces to aid the magistrate in the execution of his duty. All government is a kind of restraint. We may be told a free government imposes no restraint upon the private wills of individuals which does not conduce, in a greater degree, to the public happiness; but all government is restraint, and founded in force.

"A full spirit of national union will require that the separate and partial views of private interest be, on every occasion, sacrificed to the general welfare, so, when this principle prevails not, (and it will only prevail in moments of enthusiasm,) the National Union must ever be destroyed by selfish and private interests.

"With respect to the Union, this can only be remedied by a strong government, which, while it collects its powers to appoint, will prevent that spirit of disunion from which the most serious consequences are to be apprehended."

Gen. Chas. Cotesworth Pinckney said: "Shall we not be stigmatized as a faithless, unworthy people, if each member of the Union may, with impunity, violate the engagements entered into by the Federal Government? Who will confide in us? Who will treat with us if our practice should be conformable to this doctrine?"

Vattel, one of the best writers on the law of nations, says: "There would be no more security, no longer any commerce between mankind, did they not believe themselves obliged to preserve their faith, and to keep their word. Nations, and their conductors, ought, then, to keep their promises and their treaties inviolable. The national greatness of soul is the source of immortal glory; upon it is founded the confidence of nations, and it thus becomes a certain instrument of power and splendor."

South Carolina, therefore, considering its situation, and the valuable produce it has to export, is particularly interested in maintaining the sacredness of treaties, and the good faith with which they should be observed by every member of the Union.

"It was alleged that the Southern States were weak. We are so weak that by ourselves we could not form a Union strong enough for the purpose of effectually protecting each other. Without union with the other States, South Carolina must soon fall. Is there any one among us so much a Quixote as to suppose that this State could long maintain her independence if she stood alone, or was only connected with the Southern States? I scarcely believe there is. Let an invading power send a naval force into the Chesapeake to keep Virginia in alarm, and attack South Carolina with such a naval and military force as Sir Henry Clinton brought here in 1780, and though they might not soon conquer us, they would certainly do us an infinite deal of mischief; and if they considerably increased their numbers, we should probably fall. As from the nature of our climate, and the fewness of our inhabitants, we are undoubtedly weak, should we not endeavor to form a close union with the Eastern States, who are strong? And ought we not to endeavor to increase that species of strength which will render them of most service to us both in peace and war?—I mean their navy. We certainly ought; and by doing this we render it their particular interest to afford us every assistance in their power, as every wound that we receive will eventually affect them."

"The separate independence and individual sovereignty of the several States were never thought of by the enlightened band of patriots who framed the Declaration of Independence; the several States are not even mentioned by name in any part of it, as if it was intended to impress this maxim on America, that our freedom and independence arose from our Union, and without it we could neither be free nor independent. Let us, then, consider all attempts to weaken this Union, by maintaining that each State is separately and individually independent, as a species of political heresy, which can never benefit us, but may bring on us the most serious distresses."

General Charles Cotesworth Pinckney said "that it became necessary to form a new Constitution, to render us secure at home, respectable abroad, and to give us that station among the nations of the world to which, as free and independent people, we are justly entitled."

The Hon. R. Barnwell said, "that in the compacts which unite men into society, it always is necessary to give up a part of our natural rights to secure the remainder; and that, in every instance, if the latter could be maintained without giving up the former, every individual would be willing to keep back his share of those aggregate ties which then would bind the rest of the community; each individual would wish to retain his right to act as he pleases, whilst all but himself were restricted in their conduct. Let us then apply this to the United States; and yet the honorable gentleman supposes that South Carolina should be free herself. Surely this is not just, and cannot be admissible."

Hon. E. Rutledge "then compared the power given under the old and new Constitutions, and proved that they differed very little, except in that essential point which gives the power to Government of enforcing its engagements; and, surely, no person could object to this. He thought very lightly of those fears entertained about bayonets being necessary to enforce an obedience in the people to the laws, when it became certain that they could not be broken with impunity; but, if a spirit of resistance should appear, surely it ought to be in the power of Government to compel a coercion in the people."

Hon. Rawlins Lowndes: "The treaty of peace expressly agreed to acknowledge us as free, sovereign, and independent States, which privileges we lived in the exercise of."

He admitted an important point, when he further said, "But this new Constitution at once swept those privileges away, being sovereign over all."

Charles Pinckney: "We are to reflect that this Constitution is not framed to answer temporary purposes. We hope it will last for ages—that it will be the perpetual protector of our rights and properties."

"On them (I mean the State system) rests the general fabric; on their foundation is this magnificent structure of freedom erected, each depending upon, supporting, and protecting the other; nor—so intimate is the connection—can the one be removed without prostrating the other in ruin; like the head and the body, separate them and they die."

"Far be it from me to suppose that such an attempt should ever be made; the good sense and virtue of our country forbid the idea. To the Union we will look up as to the temple of our freedom—a temple founded in the affections and supported by the virtue of our people. Here we will pour out our gratitude to the Author of all good for suffering us to participate in the rights of a people who govern themselves."

[For the Louisville Journal.]

MESSRS EDITORS: If every poor man in Kentucky, who from his position can never expect to own a negro, will read and ponder Mr. Spratt's very able letter published in your paper of to-day, I am inclined to think he would forego the pursuit of his "rights" out of the Union, but stay in and fight for his rights and those of the people of the State at the polls—the proper place—until they are acknowledged. Mr. Spratt does not want free white labor as an element in the Southern Confederacy, but particularly desires its exclusion as a dangerous, disorganizing democracy. He wishes the Southern Government to be known as the slave Republic—governed by the head of society, and not by the heels, as he terms free white labor. This letter is full of argument for the use of an able and patriotic man—nothing better could be drawn to convince the people of these States that are still in the Union that they can secede into nothing better. If Mr. S. can indoctrinate any considerable number of the people of the South with his ideas, there will either be an "irrepressible conflict" or a very conservative condition in the new Republic. Such a Republic as Mr. Spratt's ideal might be very [illegible]—most certainly it would not be [illegible], for progress comes from the men who have fortunes or reputations to make, not from those who are born to one or the other, if I may be allowed to use the expression born to reputation. But, Messrs. Editors, I hope you can find it agreeable to serve up in small portions the salient points of this very remarkable letter in such a way as to make all your readers familiar with them, for I fear the length of the letter will deter many from reading it. CELEBRATED
STIMULATING ONGUENT
For the Whiskers and Hair.
The subscribers take pleasure in announcing to the citizens of the United States that they have obtained the Agency for, and are now enabled to offer to the American public the above justly celebrated and world-renowned article
THE STIMULATING ONGUENT
is prepared by DR. C. P. BELLINGHAM, an eminent physician of London, and is warranted to bring out a thick set of WHISKERS OR A MUSTACHE
in from three to six weeks. This article is the only one of the kind used by the French, and in London and Paris it is in universal use.
It is a beautiful, economical, soothing, yet stimulating compound, acting as if by magic upon the roots, causing a beautiful growth of luxuriant hair. If applied to the scalp, it will cure BALDNESS, and cause to spring up in place of the bald spots a fine growth of new hair. Applied according to directions, it will turn RED or towy hair DARK, and restore gray hair to its original color, leaving it soft, smooth, and flexible. The "ONGUENT" is an indispensable article in every gentleman's toilet, and after one week's use they would not for any consideration be without it.
The subscribers are the only Agents for the article in the United States, to whom all orders must be addressed.
Price One Dollar a box. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers; or a box of the "Onguent" (warranted to have the desired effect) will be sent to any who desire it by mail (direct) securely packed, on receipt of price and postage, $1 18. Apply to or address

Scrofula, or King's Evil,
IS a constitutional disease, a corruption of the blood, by which this fluid becomes vitiated, weak, and poor. Being in the circulation, it pervades the whole body, and may burst out in disease on any part of it. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending "from parents to children unto the third and fourth generation;" indeed, it seems to be the rod of Him who says: "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children."
One quarter of all our people are scrofulous; their persons are invaded by this lurking infection, and their health is undermined by it. To cleanse it from the system we must renovate the blood by an alterative medicine, and invigorate it by healthy food and exercise. Such a medicine we supply in the most effectual remedy which the medical skill of our times can devise for this everywhere prevailing and fatal malady. It is combined from the most active remedials that have been discovered for the expurgation of this foul disorder from the blood, and the rescue of the system from its destructive consequences. Hence it should be employed for the cure of not only scrofula, but also those other affections which arise from it, such as Eruptive and Skin Diseases, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Blains and Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Rheumatism, Syphilitic and Mercurial Diseases, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Debility, and, indeed, all complaints arising from vitiated or impure blood. The popular belief in "impurity of the blood" is founded in truth, for scrofula is a degeneration of the blood. The particular purpose and virtue of this Sarsaparilla is to purify and regenerate this vital fluid, without which sound health is impossible in contaminated constitutions.
AYER'S
Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla,

The Brinly Plow.

NO MAN CAN BE A SUCCESSFUL FARMER without using a good Plow. Every farmer wishes to be successful; hence he must use not only a good but if possible the best Plow. A Plow, to deserve the name "good," must be of light draft, that the team may pull it easily; must run steadily, do its work thoroughly; clean itself in every soil; must be simple in construction and have no useless weight. The Plow that excels all others in these particulars is not only a "good" but the best Plow, and, of course, should be used on every farm.
THIS BEST ARTICLE,
Brinly's Patent Steel Plow,
has proved itself in one hundred and sixty trials with the most popular Plows in the country and on every farm on which it has been used. Let every farmer try it. Send for a circular.

For Scalds or Burns. It cures Scratches on Horses, Sore Eyes on Horses, Sprains, Swinney, Poll Evil, Fistula, saddle and harness Galls, fresh Wounds or Swellings, and is *the best known remedy to apply to tender-footed horses, from founder—to make up the feet and bathe well about the frog of the foot. No one medicine can cure in all cases, but we can show more real proof of the virtue of AMBROSIAL OIL.
In its healing properties, from responsible men, who are above being bought, than can be produced for any other medicine.
We do not assert a cure for every malady to which the human family are subject, but what we proclaim we can substantiate by living witnesses. The Ambrosial Oil is a Nashville preparation and sold throughout the country by druggists and general dealers. The country may be justly proud that
Dr. Clark, a Native Tennessean, after much labor and research, has produced a really worthy medicine, which is bound to drive out much of the worthless imported trash with which the country is flooded.
Please call at our office, where we will take pleasure in showing letters and testimonials too numerous to set forth in the form of an advertisement, some of which come from Physicians in high standing, who are using it in their practice, as they state, with marvelous effects.
We Challenge the World to produce a remedy so speedy and effectual in its healing properties.

WEBSTER'S GALLERY HAS always been the leading most successful Gallery in the West and it is surprising to what perfection they have now brought this Beautiful Art. We were not astonished until we visited this famous Gallery a few days since, and saw the walls completely covered with elegant and truly artistic gems of Portraiture, of every size and style, and all seeming so perfectly life-like; we say that until then we had no idea that all the Messrs. 100,000 Acres of Land for Sale in New Mexico.
UNDER the 5th Section of an act of Congress approved July 21, 1860, confirming private Land claims in New Mexico, I have a float for sale for the above number of acres. The float can be located "in a square body on any vacant land not mineral" in New Mexico or Arizona. As this is the only float for sale capable of location at the option of the purchaser, it affords great inducements to capitalists desiring a large body of Land adjacent to valuable mines for agriculture settlement or to proceed and enter a title to towns or other places now growing up in those Territories. The section of the act of Congress above referred to will explain the float and show the entire security in the title. Proposals for the purchase of the entire quantity are invited until the 1st day of March, 1861. The float will then be sold to the highest responsible bidder, per acre, half cash in hand, the residue in one year. As the title will not be made until final payment, no security will be required. Satisfactory security will be given for the making of a valid title on final payment. No attention paid to bids not accompanied with a satisfactory reference. Lands are not taxed in New Mexico. Cemeterial Architecture.—Art, in its early inception, was regarded as the vehicle of social progress and its rise and fall as dependent upon the state of public morality. Pliny mourned over the decadence of Art, when the philosophical and religious creeds of the Greek descended to a low standard, and superstition and slavery usurped the places, of what to him was a pure faith, and of freedom. This is true as regarded Pagan art, which sought to represent its darkened creed of spiritual existence by every graceful symbol and elevated attitude which fancy could depict; but Christian art derived its impulse from the opposite principle, and its mission was to inculcate moral duties and religious faith. As a consequence it has been noted as worthy of observation, that as the Church declined from its purity, so Art arose in beauty and grandeur, and its greatest triumphs were achieved when Christianity had sunk down almost to its lowest state of thraldom and superstition. Of late years in the broad sunlight of knowledge, refinement, and civilization, Art has taken its place among the household delights and has diffused its delicious influence over all classes of society. In no particular have its beneficial influences been more widely exhibited than in removing from the olden graveyards the ghostly emblems of mortal decay, and uprearing in their places the cemeteries, blooming like gardens, and filled with the choicest productions of the sculptor's skill. We can conceive of no greater blessing than these improvements, which have changed the places of skulls into beds of roses, and woodbines, and forget-me-nots. The eye of faith, accustomed to look to the "sweet fields arrayed in living green," which invite mortals to pass the river of death without fear, is now permitted to behold the loved of earth reposing calmly beneath the hillocks in the cemetery, where the hand of affection trains the flowers and vines, and over which is reared the humble tomb, or the sculptured cenotaph.

We have seen several superb monuments designed by the senior member of the firm of M. Muldoon & Co., which are attracting great attention at their marble works. One of them, intended for the grave of an infant, is an exquisite conception, and looks like a fit nestling place for the pearl, which, too pure for earth, has gone to shine in the crown of immortality. It is a shell reposing on rough rock work, surrounded by water flowers, and within its chamber reposes a baby form, most artistically worked, in the finest statuary marble. White as the driven snow, the child rests as upon the living maternal bosom, which will no more heat to receive its precious burden, while it pictures the cherub form which the lost one to earth now wears in heaven. The design is full of poetry, and the bereaved parents can look upon it with pleasure, as its beauty disarms death of its sting and conquers a victory over the grave. Mr. Muldoon has shown himself a true artist by this work, and we ask our friends to inspect it at his place of business, opposite our office, before it is removed to the Cemetery.

Important Arrest.—Officers Moore, Swinney, and Seay arrested a man named H. H. McMannus and a female companion known as Alice Long, alias McDonald, alias McMannus, at a house of bad repute up town Tuesday morning, and found in their possession a large amount of stolen property, consisting of silks, silver-ware, and other costly goods. The officers took possession of three trunks, which contained several valuable dress patterns of silk, fine linens, a silver tea urn, salt-cellars, spoons, knives and forks, and other articles of value. A roll of counterfeit money was also found in McMannus's possession. The officers named above deserve much credit for effecting the arrest, as the accused are no doubt expert thieves, and have committed many depredations not only in this community but elsewhere. They came directly from Cairo to this city, but are supposed to be originally from Memphis, and perhaps the articles alluded to were stolen from citizens of the latter place.

Cyclorama of Ireland.—Mr. Fielder, the agent of MacEvoy's Cyclorama of Ireland, arrived in the city yesterday, and effected arrangements for the exhibition of this great work of art; and he assures us that it will be unrolled for the first time at Mozart Hall, on Thursday evening next. Ireland is a most interesting subject for such a work, and in this instance the artist has made the most of his subject. The exhibition is accompanied by music, both vocal and instrumental. Mr. MacEvoy was at one time a resident of this city, and we have a vivid memory of his accomplishments and the peculiar charms of his interesting family.

Union Meeting in the Fifth Ward.—At a meeting of citizens of the Fifth Ward last evening, Dr. Samuel Griffith was called to the Chair and Mr. J. W. Clarke was appointed Secretary.

On motion the meeting proceeded to ballot for candidates for the Common Council and School Trustee, with the following result: For Councilmen, J. M. Armstrong and Dr. T. L. Caldwell; for School Trustee, Sim. Watkins.

The following delegates to the proposed city convention were then appointed: Sam. Matlack, Sim. Watkins, E. S. Craig, J. W. Clarke, Wm. Stewart, J. P. Thompson, J. B. Walker, and Dr. Samuel Griffith.

Theatre.—This evening Miss Sallie St. Clair appears in the beautiful drama of the French Spy, and it may be anticipated that she will perform the several characters incidental to the piece in her usual graceful and spirited manner. Her friends must all hold themselves in readiness for her farewell benefit on Friday night, give her a full house, and send her on her way rejoicing.

Commencement Exercises.—The annual commencement exercises of the Kentucky School of Medicine will take place at the College Hall at half past 7 o'clock this evening, on which occasion the valedictory will be delivered. The public are invited to attend.

All Right Again.—We stated yesterday that a man named Reynolds had eloped with a citizen's wife and one hundred dollars worth of property. The fugitives were persued to Elizabethtown, Ky., and the injured husband recovered his wife and property.

Asbury Female College. — The Rev. Geo. A. Chase has been appointed President of the Asbury Female College at New Albany, Ind. The institution will be ready to receive pupils by the 20th of April.

Accident.—Mr. John Hulme, a workman in Irwin's plaining mill, on Washington street, got caught in the machinery last evening and had his left hand crushed and a leg badly injured.

☞ Our forwarding merchants will observe that through freight will not be received at the Nashville depot until to-morrow morning at eight o'clock.

Late Papers.—Thanks to Messrs. Collins and Overmyer, the popular Adams Express Messengers, for late papers.

☞ Hon. L. W. Andrews, of the State Senate, addressed his fellow-citizens at the Court-house in Flemingsburg on Saturday afternoon last, in a speech of over two hours. He asserted his determination to stick by the Union as long as there was a vestige of it left. The audience was large and enthusiastic, and the Star says it had never seen a more attentive mass of people assembled together.

Fire in Bloomington.—We learn from Mr. J. L. Overmyer, the Adams Express messenger, that a fire occurred at Bloomington, Indiana, at one o'clock yesterday, which destroyed a handsome residence in that town.

Negro Killed.—Two negroes had a difficulty in Christian county, Ky., one day last week, in which a slave named Dick, the property of John T. Edmunds, was killed by a blow from an axe. The murderer was arrested.

Painful Accident.—Miss Alice Munday was thrown from a horse recently at Canton, Ky. By the accident her right shoulder was dislocated, and she received other serious injuries.

Distressing Suicide.—An old and respectable citizen of Muncie, Indiana, named Robert Shaw, committed suicide on Thursday last, by shooting himself. He leaves a large family.

Hymeneal.—Mr. John N. Oliver, of this State, and Miss Mary E. Towers, of Washington City, were married in the Church of the Ascension, in Washington, on Thursday last.

Terrible Tragedy.—In an affray near Memphis on Friday last two young men named Peatete and Laws were both killed. The former was shot and the latter stabbed.

Literary Celebration.—The literary societies of the Shelby College celebrated Washington's birthday.

☞ A new postoffice has been established at West Baden, Orange county, Ind.

☞ Gen. Cass was to leave Washington city yesterday for Detroit.

Union Meeting in the Second Ward.—At a meeting of the Union men of the Second Ward, called for the purpose of making nominations for ward officers and appointing delegates to attend a city convention to nominate candidates for the city at large, Mr. Henry Russell was called to the Chair, and S. P. Browder appointed Secretary. On motion Messrs. Campbell, Watts, and Dryden were appointed a committee to draft resolutions expressive of the sentiments of the meeting. While the committee were out the meeting was entertained by Messrs. Reasor and Foree. The following resolutions were presented, discussed, and unanimously adopted:

Resolved, By the people of the Second Ward, in Council assembled, that this meeting was called without the knowledge or consent of the people of the ward.

Resolved, That we are opposed to an association to nominate city officers, and that this ward will not send delegates to said convention, believing that such assemblages usually cheat the people; being governed by the wire-workers and pipe-layers; and, further, that the spirit of the times are against such a course and the people generally opposed to it.

Resolved, That municipal officers should be chosen without regard to party ties, the people having in view the fitness of the person for the office to which he may be chosen. Honesty and capacity to perform faithfully the duties of the office should be the standard in the opinion of the people.

Resolved, That these proceedings be published in the Journal and Democrat.

Union Meeting in the Eighth Ward.—At a meeting of citizens of the Eighth Ward, friendly to the Union, Mr. S. Waller was called to the chair and Mr. J. P. Gheen appointed Secretary.

Col. W. P. Boone was nominated as a candidate to represent the Ward in the Board of Aldermen and J. Milt. Moore and H. C. Caruth were nominated as candidates for the Common Council.

It was then agreed that the meeting would not appoint delegates to the proposed city convention.

The following resolutions were submitted and adopted:

Resolved, That the ward meetings of the city be requested not to nominate any officers, except for the General Council, but leave the choice to the people, provided no organization nominates.

Resolved, That if there be any nominations on the part of any person or organization, we hold the right to do the same.

Resolved, That we deem it expedient for the people to select for all but ward officers, which officers ought to be chosen by delegation.

Police Proceedings—Tuesday, Feb. 26th. Wm. Divine, for drunkenness, and Wm. Jones, for stealing, were discharged.

Theodore Warner, larceny. Continued until the 27th.

Mike Farrell and John Campbell, drunk and disorderly conduct. Sent to the Workhouse for three months in default of $100 bail.

Henry Williams, stealing coat, pants, &c., from Lawrence Hall. Committed to jail in default of $400 bail, to answer an indictment for felony at the next term of the Criminal Court.

Wm. Edwards, burglariously entering the house of A. D. Mansfield. Committed to jail in default of $600 bail, to answer an indictment for felony at the next term of the Criminal Court.

Terrible Tragedy at Newtown, Pa.—At Newtown, on Saturday, William Marrick and Casper Rapp, son of Jesse Rapp, two young men, aged about 18 and 20 years, were "playing soldiers" with an old musket, which happened to be loaded with a blank charge. Rapp playfully leveled the musket at the head of Merrick, and pulled the trigger; the piece was discharged, and the wad struck Merrick on the temple, killing him instantly. The affair took place in the basement kitchen of the father of young Rapp, in Newtown. Merrick was not more than six or eight feet from the muzzle of the musket when it was discharged.

A Scheme of General Emancipation.—Somebody, stimulated by Lord Brougham's letter to the Boston John Brown Committee, sends the Ex-Chancellor a report of a conversation with the late Dr. Chalmers, in which that learned and eloquent divine detailed his plan for abolishing slavery. It consisted in buying from the masters one day in each week of the slaves' time and labor, with the proper and industrious use of which the negro might gradually earn enough to buy another day, and so on until his emancipation should have been entirely purchased.

☞ A marriage recently took place in the Northern part of England, in which the parties were a widower and a widow, whose united ages reach 139 years, the gallant bridegroom having the heats of 86 summers passed over his head, and having by his first wife a progeny that numbers upwards of fifty, including children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren, some of the latter being old enough to attend the wedding.

Fatal Affray.—A difficulty occurred in Christiansburg, Va., on the 13th instant, between J. Kent Anderson, Esq., and Addison Logan, nephew of Hon. H. A. Edmundson, which resulted in the shooting of Anderson, and causing his death in a short time. The parties are both young men about nineteen years of age, and up to the time of the difficulty were warm personal friends.

A Commercial Enterprise.—The Charleston Courier of Wednesday states that a project is on foot among several enterprising merchants and capitalists to charter one or more steamships, for the purpose of sending them to Liverpool or other foreign ports, to bring back full cargoes of merchandise, and sell it at the lowest price, so as to establish our commercial independence at once.

Drowned.—We learn from the Clarksville Chronicle that three negro men were drowned near New York, Tennessee, one night last week, while attempting to cross the river in a canoe. Two of the negroes belonged to a Mrs. Jones, and the other to Mr. Elliott. They were attempting to cross the river to get to a trading boat on the opposite side of the river, when the canoe upset.

Death of an Actor.—Mr. Oliver Everett Durivage, brother to the poet of the same name, and son to a sister of Hon. Edward Everett, died in Chelsea, Tenn., on Friday afternoon, in the 47th year of his age. He was at one time a popular actor and well known as the author of a number of plays, which had a large run in his day.

A Slaver Condemned.—A decision has been rendered by Judge Betts, of the United States District Court, in New York, in the case of the slave bark Kate. He decides that the vessel and cargo must be condemned and sold, and has accordingly directed that a decree shall be issued to that end.

Stabbing Affray.—We learn from the Princeton (Ky.) Bulletin that a difficulty occurred in that place, on Wednesday evening, between James H. Pope and John Donon, in which the latter was very severely cut. Pope gave himself up to custody, was examined, and committed to jail for final trial.

Accidental Shooting.—As Captain Stewart, of the New Uncle Sam, was handling his pistol in the saloon of the boat at Memphis on Friday, it accidentally went off. The bullet inflicted a painful but not severe flesh wound on Albert Beer, newspaper dealer, who stood near.

Dickinson College.—The Hon. Horatio King, Postmaster-General, will deliver a poem before the literary societies of Dickinson College, at their anniversary, on the day before the next commencement.

☞ The Providence (R. I.) Journal, a Republican paper, gives frequent and earnest expressions to its convictions in affirmance of the duty laid on the representatives of the Republican party to strengthen the hands of Southern conservatives in the Border Slaveholding States by such conciliatory measures as shall remove the pretexts of the disunion agitators. It says:

We must remember that if the tide of disunion has been checked, it is because these brave and loyal and patriotic men of the Border States have stood like an immovable dike against its onward course, and have said, "hither shalt thou come and no further." All honor to them for their firmness and courage. Let their noble services be frankly acknowledged. We confess that when we see these true men in the Border States standing up so fairly, our earnest and honest desire is to do whatever we can consistently and without a sacrifice of principle, to strengthen their hands. They cannot, they do not ask us to do what we deem wrong. But in all measures of expediency we would go to the very verge of our beliefs to settle any questions of difference with them.

DECISIONS OF THE COURT OF APPEALS.

Frankfort, Feb. 26, 1861.

ORDERS.

Fall vs McMurdy, Franklin; petition for rehearing overruled.
Johnson vs Bowser, Jefferson; same order.
Hobbs vs Snyder, Carroll; order submitted and judgment set aside and rehearing granted.

To the Editors of the Louisville Journal:

Washington County, Ky., Feb. 22, '61.

Amidst the excitement and feeling exhibited by the friends of various distinguished legal gentlemen in this appellate district, favoring their claims to the judgeship to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of our very worthy and distinguished fellow-citizen Hon. H. M. Wood, we cannot overlook our own highly esteemed citizen Mr. R. J. Brown. Mr. Brown's legal attainments are well known to his acquaintances to be inferior to none of his age in our State. This with his indefatigable attention to his profession, with a mind equally retentive as it is eager to acquire knowledge, renders him eminently qualified to fill the very important station to which we would elevate him; his friends both far and near, so far as they have been consulted, join heartily with us in this communication, thus bringing him before the voters of this appellate district. An intimation from Mr. Brown that he would acquiesce in the wishes of his friends, would be sufficient guarantee that he would get the entire vote of our part of the district. Respectfully,

SPRINGFIELD & MAXVILLE.

Inquest No. 262—Held on the corner of Preston and Fulton streets, on the night of the 26th inst., over the body of Joseph G. Bonham, aged 28 years. Verdict—"Came to his death about 4 o'clock P. M. of the above day, from injuries received from a fall from a tree, while engaged in topping the same, about four hours previous to his death."

J. M. BUCHANAN, Coroner.

Inquest No. 263 — Held at the terminus of Clay street, at the river, on the night of the 26th inst., over the body of an unknown man, of medium size, about 30 years of age, dressed in flannel drawers and undershirt of white, also white overshirt, gray pants, dark cloth vest, woolen net sack coat, white hat, low shoes, and blue mixed stockings—found a small key in one of his pockets. Verdict — "Came to his death from drowning." J. M. BUCHANAN, Coroner.

The stock of the gun with which Adam Poe killed the Indian "Big Foot," near the foot of the Cluster Islands, near Wellsville, on the Ohio river, in 1782, is now in the possession of the Rev. A. Poe, of the firm of Poe & Swormstedt, of this city. The Rev. Mr. Poe is a grandson of the distinguished pioneer Indian fighter.

☞ There is much food for thought and not a little for hope in the following candid and discriminating letter from Charleston, South Carolina:

Charleston, S. C., Feb. 15, 1861.

While there are positive symptoms of reaction, I hope no one will jump to the conclusion that, therefore, South Carolina and some of the other seceding States are about to run a race back into the Union. There has from the outset been a vital Union sentiment in this State; there have ever been those who regarded secession the worst of evils, and a remedy for nothing; but they have been and still are small in numbers, though they are unquestionably growing bolder, if not more numerous. I learn from conversation with some of them that they have recently dared to look each other in the face, even speak—though scarcely above a whisper—words of hope and encouragement. They are a very small minority, and scarcely felt. They are right at heart, and have done nothing to encourage the hopes or strengthen the hands of the secessionists. They are as a grain of mustard seed, though, perhaps, there is rather less hope touching the probable yield thereof than we are taught to expect in the Scriptural parable. I must insist on a moderate expectancy in this respect. There are however, sundry auxiliary sources of hope. No cause ever yet had a run—especially no revolution—that did not encounter dissension, schism, revolt. While all is sunshine and fair-sailing, things go easy; and then, of course, there is union and strength. But when darkness and adverse winds come, as come they will, there will be dissension, desertions, if not positive mutiny and wreck. The cause of the revolution in South Carolina has now arrived at just this point of experience. The dissatisfied, for a variety of reasons, begin to show themselves. Secession begins to be criticised. They who do it may not be Union men; yet they are almost certain, in time, to become so. There is no other resort. The inevitable consequence of a forcible change is to contrast the thing or place fled from with that resorted to; and this a few in this State—and their number will certainly increase—are beginning to do. In no State in the Union is there so little of what you at the North understand by strict public sentiment, as in South Carolina. There is no middle class, ever talking, reading, thinking, acting—making and unmaking, and holding to a strict accountability those who occupy positions of trust and power. The State, with its white population of less than 300,000 souls, casting its 45,000 votes, is held and controlled by the aristocratic few. The form of State Government is essentially monarchical. The people do not vote for Governor or any State officer. Neither do they have any direct voice in choosing Presidential Electors, these things being left to the Legislature, which is chosen every two years. Thus are politics and public questions kept from the people, who are seldom troubled to think, or permitted to act. The workings of the local system of the State in a large measure deprive the people of power, and the effect in the long run has been to render them indifferent to great questions immediately affecting them. Such a thing as submitting a question to the people is hardly ever known. Consequently a reaction, such as I have spoken of, must be of slow growth, and about the last thing to develop itself. Secession, so far as it was submitted to the people at all in choice of delegates to the Convention, was rushed on them; time was not allowed for discussion, nor would it have been permitted had there been time; a snap judgment was taken without regard to merits, and the whole matter foreclosed by a delirious excitement which the leaders were cunning enough to create; and since then the public mind has been held up to the mark by appeals to prejudice, passion, and the false promise of results. I undertake to say that had there been permitted—what is scarcely ever permitted in South Carolina—a full and fair discussion before the people, a free exercise of private judgment, a decided and firm minority would have developed itself. And I say further, and with great confidence, that if there could be such a thing now as a fair discussion of this revolution and its results, so far as they have shown themselves; a fair canvass of the probable consequences; a free circulation of newspapers on both sides, and as free and safe a vehicle for the thoughts and arguments of those opposed as those in favor of the acts and measures of the leaders and those in authority, you might safely count on a reaction, if not an early overthrow of the rebels. But there is no such state of things here. Not a newspaper is permitted to be conducted but in the interest of the revolution. It is not safe for a man to give utterance to an honest dissenting opinion. No man is permitted to be neutral or to withhold his substance in support of the cause. Every man is expected to be an active agent, in some way, of its promotion. Thus you will see that such a thing as reaction must be at the hardest. If ever it does come, it will be like the belching volcano. You will not see its small beginnings as you see revulsions in popular sentiment in other States, and the chances are far more in favor of the reaction being crushed out, for a time at least, than of marching right on to an assertion of the popular judgment. I speak of South Carolina only, the case may be different in other States.

In reality, the idea for which South Carolina seceded has failed utterly—that of the African slave trade. Hundreds and thousands who were the back-bone of the revolution at the outset have withdrawn and ceased to take an interest. Yancey, who has thus retired from the field in Alabama, represents an army of others elsewhere. If you could now take from the movement the feature which appeals to the military sense of South Carolina—if you could take away the fancied necessity for an exploit of arms, to the end that the prowess and bravery of her sons should be vindicated, a mere sentiment which has no necessary connection with the merits of the question originally at issue—if you could rob the revolution of these features, it would be already more than half conquered. Secession at this hour retains few of its original features or proposi ions in South Carolina, and I only hope that in its future treatment the philosophical and practical bearings of the subject may be well understood.

[Telegraphed to the Cincinnati papers.]

Washington, Feb. 25.

Mr. Lincoln visited both houses of Congress about three o'clock this afternoon, accompanied by Senator Seward. He spent nearly half an hour in the House and lobbies, being introduced to members. All Republicans and most Northern Democrats took him by the hand; also Stevenson of Kentucky, Nelson of Tennessee, Davis of Maryland, Moore and Bristow of Kentucky, and two or three other Southern members. The fire-eating Virginians, &c., watched him very closely as he moved about on the floor, but all kept their seats. After shaking hands all round, the President elect was conducted by Mr. Seward into the Clerk's office and Post-office, where Speaker Pennington was presented to him, and Mr. Lincoln indulged in sundry reminiscences of his brief Congressional life, saying he left here in 1849, just when Mr. Seward came. Mr. Lincoln is in vigorous health, and a fine flow of spirits. His profuse beard makes him look ten years younger than last fall. His appearance at the capitol was quite unattended and unheralded, no policemen being about, and a miscellaneous crowd followed him everywhere as he walked arm and arm with Mr. Seward through all parts of the capitol. Not even the ordinary precautions were observed, of excluding the public from the Clerk's office and Post-office, and passages leading to them, and the officials, being all absorbed in contemplating the tall figure of Abraham for the first time, forgot their duty, and the crowd became quite annoying. At length he proposed to Mr. Seward to return; when the Senator conducted him to his carriage, looking, as he walked, very much like a dwarf waiting upon a giant, so great was the contrast in their stature. The great freedom of the President in showing himself to the public since his arrival, is contrasted with the secrecy of his approach on Saturday.

Most Baltimore papers of this morning are loud in their censures of Mr. Lincoln and his advisers. The Sun is especially violent and abusive. What it calls "the flight of Mr. Lincoln" has excited more universal curiosity, amazement, and indignation than it is easy to convey any idea of on paper. Some Republicans denounce it as timid and injudicious to the last degree. Others are silent, while most appear to think Lincoln could not properly have done otherwise without risking at least a scene of mob-violence and rowdyism at Baltimore. Amid the mass of rumors and surmises about the matter, two facts are clear—1st, Mr. Lincoln was urged in most pressing terms, by high officials in this city, to pass through Baltimore privately; 2d, The protection of the authorities of Baltimore was refused to a Republican club, who asked it for the purpose of escorting Mr. Lincoln through the city. The disorderly demonstration which did actually take place on the arrival of Mr. Lincoln's suite, although made light of by Baltimore papers, shows that there was abundant reason for apprehension in that city of mobs, where, according to Gov. Hicks, plots and conspiracies of the bloodiest and most treasonable kind have long been rife.

Whether Mr. Lincoln should have yielded to such warnings or taken the bull by the horn, as he was inclined to do until over-persuaded by others, is a matter for difference of opinion. But it is said here that the knowledge of the plot was positive, its execution certain; and Seward, Scott, and Holt are all said to have concurred that the only way to defeat the conspiracy was to out-wit or circumvent it by a counter-plot.

The ridiculous, exaggerated canard issued by the New York Times, about men of eminence and station in connection with a diabolical scheme of assassination, is of course baseless. Equally so is the pretence set up by some Baltimore papers, that there was no danger whatever that a disturbance would have occurred there.

The National Intelligencer of Monday, rather curtly disposes of the matter as follows:

"Two or three reports are abroad as to motives which induced Mr. Lincoln to enticipate the publicly announced time of his arrival in Washington. One is that he was telegraphed to be present here for reasons of State, before the separation of the Peace Convention. A second that he was telegraphed by official parties here to come on in advance of the announced time, in order to prevent possible disturbances that might grow out of the conflicting purposes of the political clubs in Baltimore—of the Republican clubs to honor Mr. Lincoln with a public demonstration, and of the far more numerous opponents to prevent it. Our own solution is that under all circumstances of the case, which we doubt not Mr. Lincoln himself correctly appreciated, he deemed it best to avoid all chances of turmoil, and at the same time to be relieved of all further demonstrations, of which his journey had been already amply full."

Senator Seward has so far had charge of Mr. Lincoln's arrangements. It is not believed that any influence will be able to dislodge him, or bring inharmonious elements into the Cabinet.

Lincoln still holds private conferences on all sides, listens attentively to all, but is non-committal yet to all.

Among those who called on the President-elect to-day were Buchanan, Breckinridge, Cass, Senator Powell, and Gen. Scott. Lincoln, according to custom, called upon the Judges of the Supreme Court.

It is authoritatively stated by Baltimore residents that it had been determined to lynch the Committee of Baltimore Republicans had they attempted to escort Lincoln through the city. As it was, Mrs. Lincoln was grossly insulted by rowdies around her carriage.

I have just learned from the most unquestionable authority that neither the Peace Conference nor Congress are expected to do anything with the exciting questions of the day. Since Mr. Lincoln arrived here he has determined to throw overboard Greeley and the anti-compromisers, and to follow the course advised by Seward, Kellogg, and Thurlow Weed. He now believes that coercive measures would produce civil war, which he says must be avoided. He will take no strong compromise ground in his inaugural, and it is hoped relieve the country of the terrible suspense that now is impoverishing millions.

Among the on dits of the day is one that President Buchanan had an interview yesterday with Ex-President Tyler, to ascertain whether, the sudden visit of Mr. Davis to Charleston means peace or war, and that Mr. Tyler expressed the decided conviction that the mission there of Mr. Davis was a peaceful one; i. e., to prevent an attack upon Fort Sumter until the policy of the incoming Administration shall have been defined.

A Consumptive Life Saved.— Consumption primarily and essentially due to a disordered nutrition, can be rationally attacked only by medicines which renovate the nutritive powers. Such a medicine is the PERUVIAN SYRUP, whose chief ingredient acts directly and immediately on the blood, and arrests the diseases safely and surely:

Baltimore, July 15, 1854.

I was suffering with a severe Catarrhal Cough, accompanied by Nightsweats, loss of Appetite and great Debility, which was daily increasing. In this state I commenced taking the Peruvian Syrup. In a few days, and before I had used the second bottle, my cough lessened, night sweats ceased, appetite was restored, and with it strength and vigor beyond what I had enjoyed for ten years, being able to walk several miles each day without fatigue, while hitherto I could walk only a short distance. A. S. KELLOGG.

A CARD.

United States Hotel, Oct. 2, 1860.

To Mr. Hugh Wilkins:

The carpet lining put down for us by you is the only thing of the kind that we have ever seen that we would care to have put under our carpets. So much are we pleased with it, that we would be very unwilling to have another carpet (old or new) put down without it. The difference between a room where it is used and where it is not is so striking as to arrest the attention of the most unobservant. It is worth more than its cost in the increased softness and pleasantness it gives the carpet, and we think you do not overrate its economy in stating that it adds one half to the carpet's wear.

If our recommendation of it will add anything to your sales, we cheerfully give it, feeling we do your customers a much greater kindness than we do you. HALL & HARRIS.

To the Editors of the Louisville Journal:

Due West, S. C., Feb. 12, 1861.

Gentlemen: Owing to some unknown cause, I do not now receive a weekly visit from your very able, valuable, and interesting Journal. If you are at fault, I would be exceedingly glad and obliged that you would remember that justice demands that I should receive the Journal until the full expiration of my time of subscription. Gentlemen, I cannot believe that you are at fault. I know that you are anxious to circulate your Journal, which is always fraught with sound doctrines and irrefutable and incontrovertible truths. The Journal is a vigilant and trusty watchman on the battlements of the Constitution and the Union.

Notwithstanding several of the cotton States have "declared their independence" by severing the sacred bonds by which they were united to other States, I firmly and confidently believe and boldly declare, that, if the hardy yeomanry of these now "Independent States" could receive a weekly visit from the Journal, and have an opportunity of reading its golden truths, and coolly and dispassionately ponder the lessons of wisdom contained therein, they would be deeply sorry of their rash and inconsiderate action. Yes, they would be more than anxious to return to the sacred circle of the glorious Union, in which they have enjoyed so many blessings and privileges.

The 30th of January was the last Journal I received. Please send me the numbers I have failed to receive. The failure, I hope, lies in the mails. I hope you will be punctual in mailing the Journal to my address, as I value it higher than all the other papers of the United States combined. Hoping to receive a visit from the Journal soon, I remain yours, S. F. D.

Messrs. Clark, Gregory, & Co., Nashville, Tenn.—

Gents: Some three months since I had the misfortune to be bitten by a large rat while asleep in my room. I was bitten entirely through the nose, so that the blood ran from my nostrils. Knowing a rat bite to be very dangerous, I felt much alarm, and having tried your Ambrosial Oil for many ailments, and finding relief, I applied it thoroughly during the balance of the night and next day. It healed at once, and I have never experienced any ill effects from the same. I felt that the world should know the magic power of your justly celebrated Ambrosial Oil.

☞ The closing years of life are often rendered wretched by ailments which are trifling in themselves and easily cured if taken in time. Affections of the liver, stomach, and other organs concerned in digestion are the most frequent. They naturally make the sufferer nervous, irritable, and complaining, and relatives and friends are forced to bear the brunt of their ill-humor. The use of Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters will prove an efficient remedy for this evil. It will not only strengthen the whole physical organization, but entirely cure the most obstinate cases of Indigestion, Diarrhea, Dysentery, and Liver Complaint. The first physicians in the country are loud in their praise of this preparation. Another recommendation of the Bitters is that it is so palatable to the taste that it may be used even as a beverage.

XXXVIth CONGRESS—SECOND SESSION

Washington, Feb. 25.

After other unimportant debate the bill passed. The Territorial bill was made the order of the day for to-morrow. Adjourned.

Tuesday's Proceedings.

Washington, Feb. 26.

Senate.—The annual report of the Smithsonian Institute was received and ordered to be printed.

Mr. Thompson presented a petition in favor of the Crittenden compromise.

Mr. Dixon presented a petition in favor of the Border State resolutions.

The joint resolution to repeal the resolution in favor of Geo. Fisher was taken up and passed.

The Oregon debt was taken up, and, on motion of Mr. Lane, a committee of conference was appointed.

The House bill for organization of the Territory of Colorado was taken up.

Mr. Green moved that the Senate concur in the House amendments.

Mr. Douglas, objecting to the amendments of the House, they were agreed to—yeas 26, nays 19.

The bill to organize the territorial government of Nevada was taken up and passed.

The bill to organize the Territory of Dacotah was taken up and passed.

A report from the Committee of Conference on the disagreeing vote of the two Houses on amendments, fixing a duty on tea and coffee, was adopted.

The post route bill was then taken up.

House.—Mr. Kellogg of Illinois rose to present a petition of 226 voters of Illinois, favoring the adoption of the peace proposition heretofore submitted by himself.

Mr. Edgerton objected.

Mr. Kellogg was surprised that any one should be unwilling to receive an expression of the will of the people while we are being hurried into the calamities of civil war, and the destruction of the Government is threatened.

Mr. Edgerton replied the gentleman could present the petition from that State.

Mr. Davis, of Ind., presented a petition from that State, signed by men of all parties, in favor of the Crittenden proposition.

The Speaker presented the proceedings and resolutions of the Pennsylvania Democratic Convention which were laid on the table.

The House took up the volunteer bill.

Mr. Howard, of Michigan, resumed his remarks in favor of it, which gave a construction to the laws already in existence that it was the duty of Congress to put into the hands of the President the means of performing his duty, and pointed out the mode in which he should do it. They could not be released from this obligation. He repeated that the President should have the power to execute the Constitution in all its parts. The highest duty of a government, which dates far anterior to all Constitutions, is to preserve its existence.

Mr. Pryor said the purpose of the dominant party, plainly manifested and openly avowed, is to drive through the bill by the pressure of an irrepressible conflict. As this was a foregone conclusion, he hoped it would pass at once, to the end that the people of Virginia and the South may be aroused to the perils which menace them. He defiantly challenged them to assume the attitude of hostility corresponding to their bloody designs. He knew the Republican party was resolved never to recognize the independence of the seceded States, nor to surrender the control over the captured forts—in short, they are resolved to permit the South no other alternative but submission or subjugation.

Mr. Curtis said that Pryor had indulged in declarations and denunciations similar to those of his colleague (Bocock). The Republicans were accused of meditating coercion, when everything done and said had no such bearing. The gentleman expressed the hope that the bill would speedily pass for the purpose of arousing Virginia and the South. He did not thus speak to reason, to the bill, or to Congress, but to the Convention of Virginia and the assemblies of the South, who are taking action against his own mother country. The gentleman's own statement, that a Confederacy exists within the United States, should induce us to draw around ourselves all the means of power and protection we can command. The bill now pending was for defence. He contended that there was nothing unconstitutional in the bill, which only extended the provisions of existing laws.

Washington, Feb. 26.

The despatch read yesterday by the Secretary of War informing him that Gen. Twiggs had surrendered the military property to the Revolutionists in Texas, was from the Commissary of Subsistence, and dated at New Orleans. He adds that the use of the Government means of transportation was allowed to take the Federal troops to the seaboard, and they were permitted to take with them three or four cannon and their side arms. The Secretary read this morning the documents from Texas, showing that as early as the 7th of February, Gen. Twiggs was entering into negotiations with the Texans for the surrender of the military property.

Col. White was several weeks ago appointed to succeed Gen. Twiggs as chief of the military department of Texas, but it appears he had not reached there at the time of Gen. Twiggs's surrender, which is considered by the Government authorities as one of the most disgracefully atrocious acts committed by the secessionists.

The Peace Conference was in session till 1 or 2 o'clock this morning. The spirited debate previously commenced continued, and during the night's proceedings many if not all of the amendments were voted down, leaving substantially Mr. Guthrie's proposition, with modified verbiage. This was in Committee of the whole, but it will be voted on definitely to-day.

Richmond, Feb. 26.

A strong speech was made in the Convention yesterday by Mr. Moore of Rockbridge, in Letcher's district, the substance of which was inimical to the rights of Virginia and the whole South. It was decidedly Union in its tendency and strongly against the action of South Carolina.

The secessionists posted bills calling on every true Southerner to attend an adjourned meeting. Music was engaged and 1500 persons assembled near the Exchange Hotel, where strong Southern speeches were made by delegates to the Convention. Gov. Wise was called for but was unwell. The meeting adjourned to the Shotwood House, where more speeches were made. An attempt was made to burn Moore in effigy but was stopped by the Mayor.

This whole decided secession demonstration was got up by parties in the negro buying and selling interest.

Raleigh, Feb. 26.

The Legislature adjourned yesterday morning. There is some talk of an extra session, if the events of the next four weeks are unfavorable for compromise.

Montgomery, Feb. 25.

A resolution was adopted in Congress instructing a committee to inquire into the present condition of the public lands.

The committee on permanent constitution will report on Wednesday.

The following are the appointments: Postmaster General, Henry P. Ulett; Attorney General, J. P. Benjamin; Commissioners to Washington, A. B. Roman, M. J. Crawford, John Forsyth. It is rumored that Mallory will be Secretary of the Navy.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 25.

The Convention re-assembled to-day. Mr. Moore offered resolutions demanding security against further wrongs; opposing the African slave trade; opposing direct taxation; approving the Crittenden resolutions, declaring that if such or a similar compromise is not adopted Virginia will be ready to enter into a compact with such States as will agree to such a compromise and form a new confederacy, excluding all disagreeing States. Referred.

Mr. Moore advocated his proposition, and was replied to by Mr. Goor, favoring secession, causing considerable excitement in the galleries, which were cleared and the Convention adjourned.

Washington, Feb. 25.

The third clause of Guthrie's proposition was debated by Conference to-day without a vote. A session is being held to-night. Strong efforts are making to come to a conclusion on the subject.

The War Department to-day received corroborative despatches that Gen. Twiggs had surrendered to the Texas rebels all the Government military property. Secretary Holt had despatched orders to relieve him, but they could not have arrived.

The most reliable report of the construction of Lincoln's Cabinet is Seward, Secretary of State; Bates, Attorney General; Gilmer, of N. C., Secretary of the Navy; C. B. Smith, Secretary of the Interior; Willis, Postmaster General; Cameron, Secretary of the Treasury.

Despatches to Government report a large expedition leaving Galveston for the Rio Grande, consisting of six companies from Galveston and Houston, and two from the interior. The object is declared to be protection to the frontier in the event of the United States troops being withdrawn. Col. Ford, an old ranger, commands the regiment.

It is presumed here in army circles that Col E. V. Sumner will be promoted to the commission dishonored and abandoned by Gen. Twiggs.

Despite existing rumors brought to the city last night Mr. Lincoln slept and rested well. To-day President Buchanan, Mr. Stanton, and other prominent Democrats called on him.

Lord Lyons and the Ministers from France, Russia, Prussia, Spain, and elsewhere, left their cards with Mr. Lincoln, as did also the Secretaries of the various Legations. Gen. Scott, Seward, and several prominent Republican Senators were closeted with him this morning concerning the ceremonies connected with his inauguration.

At a general levee given by Mr. Lincoln, several hundred gentlemen from all sections of the country paid their respects to him this morning. He visited the Senate and House of Representatives.

Mr. Wood, manager of the Presidential trip, called to report this morning to Gen. Scott. The General told him that everything had been done as it should have been—that he approved of every step, and Mr. Lincoln did exactly as he should have done when he left Harrisburg and came through, via Baltimore.

Information is before the proper authorities tending to prove that an organized body of 500 men have sworn that Mr. Lincoln shall never sleep in the White House. A detective who joined them says the plan is as follows:

The entire band are to occupy a position as near the President on inauguration day as they can obtain, one of their number standing in the centre of them is to shoot Lincoln with an air-gun, when the crowd of men around the assassin will so hide him as to render detection impossible. Further details may be obtained to-night, though for many reasons it is deemed advisable to withhold definite information.

A document was handed to Mr. Lincoln to-day signed by a majority of the State Senate, headed by the Lieut. Governor, recommending Mr. Colfax for Postmaster-General. Mr. Lincoln observed that this was very strong, and there seemed a very general desire in many parts of the country that Colfax should have the position indicated.

The Peace Convention has been in session all day. The debate was the most spirited which has yet occurred. Mr. Guthrie and some of his friends became so much offended that they left the hall, and signified an intention not to go back. The Convention, at one time, was very near breaking up, but better counsels prevailed. Mr. Guthrie subsequently returned and business proceeded at 7 o'clock. Some members stated that a night session was probable. There is no hope of an adjournment to-morrow.

The Government seems to have made more than one effort to get possession of the bullion fund in the New Orleans Mint.

Postmaster-General King, on the 19th instant, drew on Mr. Guirot, Assistant Treasurer of Louisiane, for $300,000, but his draft, like Secretary Dix's, was dishonored.

Baltimore, Feb. 25.

A letter from a Southern member of the Peace Conference to the American, says peace will be preserved and union restored. The results on all points in controversy will be satisfactory to a majority. Will probably close our labor on Tuesday.

The Charleston Courier says Fort Sumter belched forth its saucy saluta of 34 guns on Washington's birthday.

Pittsburg, Feb. 26, M.

River 10 feet 3 inches by pier mark and falling. Weather clear and cold.

Cincinnati, Feb. 26, M.

XXXVIth CONGRESS—SECOND SESSION

Tuesday's Proceedings Concluded.

Washington, Feb. 26.

Senate.—Mr. Seward presented the credentials of Mr. Harris, Senator elect from New York.

The House amendments to the post route bill was agreed to and the bill passed.

Mr. Gwin introduced a supplementary post route bill. Laid over.

The army bill was taken up.

The amendment for an arsenal in Texas was stricken out.

Mr. Fessenden here made a report from the conference committee on the consular and diplomatic bill, so the bill passed.

Mr. Baker offered an amendment to the army bill for $50,000 to protect emigrants to Oregon. Adopted.

After further consideration of the bill in committee the bill was reported to the Senate.

Adjourned.

House.—Mr. Burnett asked whether it was the purpose of the Republicans under this bill to reforce forts in seceded States now held by the Federal Government to recapture forts therein unless they shall be surrendered.

Mr. Curtis replied that his purpose was to support the Constitution and it is until some power shall be vested in him to do otherwise. He had sworn to support the Constitution and must do so. It may not be necessary to reinforce these forts in the present exasperated state of the public mind. He recognized rebellion and civil war as existing in the South. He would resort to all honorable means to avoid a conflict of arms and did not believe it would be necessary to move an army thither until the people carry their hostilities against the United States to such an extent as to demand it.

Mr. Burnett said, though not satisfied with the answer, he must accept it. He asked another question: In executing and enforcing laws do you hold it necessary in doing so to reinforce the Southern forts in possession of the Federal Government and to recapture the property?

Mr. Curtis replied that he was not going to say in open session and in public, what it may be the duty of his country to do and would only speak of designs and measures in secret session if they were for hostile purposes.

Mr. Simms, of Kentucky, in his seat, said "murder."

Mr. Curtis, in the course of his reply, said that "murder" came from the other side. Acts of assassins were not from the Republicans. The murderous ax was wielded by persons skulking in the Executive Chamber and Senate of the United States, striking their own mother—their mother country.

Mr. Burnett spoke against the bill and in favor of the recognition of the fact of the existence of a separate government in the seceded States. In arraigning the Republicans, he said they had rejected all propositions from Border States, and to accept less than what they demand would be dishonorable.

...was moved to postpone the bill till Thursday.

...Stanton said that such postponement would be fatal to the bill, as the Senate will not have time to act on it.

The motion prevailed, 105 against 74.

Mr. Bouligny, before voting, said this is the most outrageous bill ever introduced into Congress. Shame on the man who brought it here.

Mr. Grow moved to consider Territorial business.

The Speaker said the report of the Committee of Thirty three had precedence.

Mr. Grow moved to postpone the latter till to-morrow.

Mr. Bingham moved to postpone till Saturday. The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. Hickman rose to a question before voting commenced.

Mr. Sickles called him to order.

The latter was called to order by Republicans. A scene of confusion ensued, during which Mr Hickman declared he would not be put down by a word from such a mouth as Sickles.

The latter responded—Let the gentleman be put down by rules of the House. He had called him to order for conduct unbecoming in debate. [Called to order from Republicans.]

Mr. Adrian said such proceedings were disgraceful, and loudly called "Order!"

A colloquy between Messrs. Hickman and Sickles continued amid the confusion. The former at last moved postponement of the report of Committee of Thirty-three till Monday. Rejected 50 against 132.

The motion to postpone till Saturday was lost by 56 against 119, and that to postpone till to-morrow by 77 against 112. The report was now before the House.

Mr. Corwin spoke briefly.

Nearly an hour was consumed by points of order and motions to adjourn, &c.

Mr. Corwin moved to postpone voting on the first resolution, in order to consider that proposing an amendment to the Constitution. Disagreed to. Adjourned to 8 o'clock.

New York, Feb. 26.

The Kansas Legislature before their adjournment adopted a memorial to sister States setting forth that 130,000 persons are dependent for subsistence upon outside resources, that snow covered the grass of the prairies, causing starvation of a great number of cattle, and ask for 100,000 bushels of seed wheat, and a sufficiency of corn and potatoes for spring planting. They state that the committee located at Atchison has the confidence of the country, and funds sent to them are faithfully and equitably distributed to sufferers.

Washington, Feb. 26

The postponement of the volunteer bill in the House is its virtual defeat.

New Orleans, Feb. 26.

Returns from the elections at Galveston and Houston showed the vote to be in favor of secession by a strong majority.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 26.

In the Convention to-day Mr. Good finished his speech, affirming that it was the duty of Virginia to go with the South.

Mr. Goggin offered a resolution, that it is the duty of Virginia to invoke co-operation of the Border States to provide measures for concurrent action hereafter. That Virginia is attached to the Union as it was, but that as it is, does not protect her rights, and in the event of failure to obtain relief, it is her duty to provide for the future relations she is to occupy as one of the Southern States. He made a long speech, denying the constitutional right of secession, but there was a revolutionary remedy for wrongs. He wanted a consultation of the Border States to form a confederacy and invite others to join. He believed Virginia insecure in a Southern Confederacy. Adjourned.

ARRIVAL OF THE PONY EXPRESS.

Fort Kearney, Feb 26.

The Pony Express, with California dates to the 13th inst., passed this evening.

The debates on the Union resolutions continued in each branch of the Legislature. The Assembly finally passed resolutions endorsing the Crittenden Compromise, and the views expressed by Douglas and Breckinridge in opposition to coercive measures. The Democratic papers urge Senators to a concurrence in the resolutions, which are regarded as an indication that the Douglas and Breckinridge wings are to be united in one Democratic party, as it was prior to Buchanan's administration.

Several attempts had been made in the Assembly to concur in the Senate resolutions, fixing the 20th inst. for a joint convention to elect United States Senators, but as yet without success—the Republicans and Breckinridge Democrats continuing to act together to stave off the election.

Chicago, Feb. 26.

The State Auditor has been officially notified by the Bank Commissioners that the following banks have failed to make good their securities under the late call which expired on the 20th. New York, Feb. 26.

By a late arrival from Marquesas, we learn that a large fire occurred in the Plaza and property valued at over $150,000 destroyed.

Thos. McDermott, wife, and two children were burnt to death in their dwelling on Sunday night at Point Pleasant New Jersey.

To the Editors of the Louisville Journal:

Columbus, Ky., Feb. 22, 1861.

Gentlemen: To-day I have experienced an anomaly of feeling being accustomed to celebrate or witness some 22d demonstrations. The town to-day appears to wear the mantle of their fathers, without the spirit that enslaved them. A melancholy "change has come o'er the spirit of their dreams." They appear to have forgotten all the glorious memories of the past, hallowed by the 22d of Februarys and the 4th of Julys for nearly a century. Their general conversation and demeanor savors of disunion, and war is too strong for subjects that loved their country aright. It makes my heart sad to think they are trying to forget the ways of wisdom, the warnings of their fathers. Would "the father of his country" recognize it to-day if brought und ... before him as a peace offering? No, he would know her not, her nationality gone, her brilliant career recorded on history's pages, the monument of his wisdom and life's energy, all passed away like the fabric of a vision. Though a rich festival for the ambitious vampires of the North and South. I am almost afraid that we shall not witness her again in pomp and circumstance, "bidding defiance to the world." To day she lies wrecked and prostrate like a wreck of the deep. "None so poor as to do it reverence." We hope they may begin to realize how "blessings brighten as they vanish."

For the last few days we have been interested by an intellectual treat, "a feast of reason and a flow of soul," by the young men and ladies of the Rev. H. C. Reed's school, which closed its triennial exhibition to night. The exercises were largely attended by both old and young. The bewitching beauty and fascinating smiles of the "fair sex" from country and town, were present, darting sly glances at the boys, while their hearts were throbbing with reciprocal "exquisite anticipations" in return.

The young Americs of the school all seemed to have caught the spirit and feelings of the times. The most eloquent speeches and phrases of the Revolutionary statesmen were familiar to all of them, which they wielded with a potency and power becoming the occasion and times.

Among the rest one Mr. Jones alias "Brandy", who discoursed us on "the condition of the country" so extensively, we must say in honesty and justice to Mr. Jones; that our "pity gave before he began" the good thing we have heard garbled on the street so much. He certainly lays no claim to originality; if so, the field of originality with him is almost barren.

The ladies whose names and subjects of composition we now remember that impressed themselves on our mind, were Miss Ella Montgomery, "A light behind the cloud"; Miss Pomelia Miller, "Christian education"; Miss Sallie Overstreet, "Honesty and dishonesty"; Miss H. J. Turk, "Music"; Miss Ellen Murrell, "The Union—a poem"; Miss Ellen James, "Jesus wept"; Miss Mag Atkins, "Valedictory, or farewell address." These compositions were gems of rarest worth, bouquets of sweet thoughts fresh with dews from a pure, starry imagination, gilded with that bright angelic sweetness that woman alone can paint. They were miracles of wit and learning, gathered and bound by that magic thread in the web of life.

We hope Prof. Reed's school may open with a larger number and more prosperous prospects than ever, for we are fond of such treats as he gives us about the days of exhibition times.

BOLEYN.

To the Editors of the Louisville Journal:

Eminence, Ky., Feb. 23, 1861.

Yesterday, the 22d, a day long to be remembered, honored and revered by every true American heart, was celebrated with wonted enthusiasm and patriotic zeal by the students of Eminence College. While the voice of the youthful orator, united with the melody of song, poured a libation of gratitude on the altar of patriotism to the God of nations, the portrait of him the anniversary of whose birth they celebrated overlooked the scene. Interlined in every feature of that countenance were the principles of the true philanthropist, depicting that dauntless spirit that never quailed in battle, or the darkest period of his country's cause, and that in peace was alike jealous of his country's interests. Over the portrait swelled in all its majesty the American ensign, that glorious banner, the guardian of civil liberty.

This scene, so fraught with living interest, bringing to our immediate view the reminiscences of the past, and calling to mind the unimpeachable character and course of the hero, patriot, and statesman to whose matchless judgment, transcendent worth, and disinterested philanthropy our government owes its sovereignty, its foundation upon the "broad basis of human rights," and its wise and liberal course of policy, must have been rebuking to the unprincipled sectionalist, the vile worker against the finer feelings of his own heart, who would nourish darkly the idea of revolutionizing our glorious government or alienating one portion of it from another.

The secessionist, witnessing the celebration of Washington's birth-day by the patriotic youth of the land, knowing their motives to be honest, and prompted by hearts that know not prejudice, must feel that he is the degenerate offspring of those martyrs of liberty, Washington and his compatriots; and that he has lost sight of the landmarks of our happy form of government, laid down in blood by our forefathers.

The river is still falling at this point, with 9 feet water in the canal last evening, 7 feet in the steamboat pass, and 6 feet on the rocks at the falls. The weather was clear and pleasant.

At Pittsburg at noon yesterday the river was falling with 10 feet 3 inches in the channel.

At Cincinnati at the same time the river was falling, having declined 2 feet the previous twenty-four hours.

Mr. F. M. Gailor, the local and river reporter of the Memphis Avalanche, has been presented with a fine gold-headed cane.

As the steamer Bracelet was leaving the wharf last evening, considerable excitement was created among the passengers, owing to the blowing out of the mud-valve. It was thought for a time that she had exploded a boiler, and the passengers rushed to the shore. They were all quieted however, and returned to the boat.

LOUISVILLE JOURNAL

RELIGIOUS ITEMS.—The "Jewish Messenger" is anxious that the Jews of New York city should be more strict in their observance of their Sabbath. In commenting upon a note from Charles King & Co., stating that they will hereafter transact no business on that day, it says: We regard this as the harbinger of a movement we have earnestly longed to see. We have noticed with pleasure, within the last month or two, signs like the following on the doors of our largest places of business—"This store closed on Saturday"—and really trust the example thus set will be generally and speedily followed. There is no reason why our merchants should transact business on the Sabbath. By a united movement of this nature, they could easily prevent whatever "inconvenience" might else accrue to them from observing the Seventh Day. It is a matter of common knowledge that Israelites abstain from business on the Sabbath, they will certainly suffer no pecuniary loss, but they will be the more respected by their fellow-citizens for their compliance with the Divine command.

The "Roman Journal" of the 20th says: The product of the collection of Peter's Pence amounting on Monday to 2,300,000 crowns, continues to pour into Rome in aid of the Pontifical treasury, and to console the soul of the Holy Father by the evidence it gives of the ardent zeal of his children, and their love for the cause of truth and justice. France, Spain, Belgium, Germany, the British Isles, and the other States of Europe, vie with each other in giving proof of their devotion to the Holy See. Donations come also from the different countries of Italy, where religion and its ministers are rudely treated, and especially from the provinces of the States of the Church at present oppressed by sacrilegious invaders.

A circular from the Baptist Missionary Rooms says: The income to the treasury during the first nine months of the year has come in slowly, and amounts, in all, to scarcely one-third of the sum needed to meet the unavoidable expenditures—$32,000 only having been received, and $110,000 appropriated by the committee. Since the financial and political disturbances have been on the community, the receipts have fallen off about one half; and unless immediate and vigorous efforts are made to replenish the treasury, a debt of many thousand dollars must be reported on the 1st of April next.

The Chicago "Record" (Episcopal) says in relation to the decrease of the clergy in that diocese: "Although our number had decreased from sixty to fifty-seven during the year 1859-60, yet since convention we have lost four others (who have already gone or are about leaving), and not a new man has come into their place. Our number stands at this time at about fifty-three, of whom seven at least are not performing clerical duty. About forty-six ministers to a population of a million and a half of souls! This is truly disheartening. At this rate Illinois will soon fall into a tenth rate diocese, when she ought to stand second to none."

The Wesleyan Methodists in Canada are increasing rapidly. In 1853 it had a membership of 4,446, scattered over a territory eight hundred miles long, in Upper and Lower Canada. They now number 6,984 members, which is an average increase of 360 per annum. During the previous seven years the increase was nine hundred and seventeen, or an increase of one hundred and thirty one per annum. Since 1853 their Mission Fund has increased from $2,554 42 to $1,823 30. In 1853 their ministers were fifty one, now they are seventy-nine.

The first organ introduced into any Methodist church in the United States was that of the Chestnut street church, Portland, Maine, July, 1836. The event was the occasion of over a column of editorial comment and censure from the pen of Dr. Elliott in the Western Christian Advocate, September 9th, 1836. Among the first Methodist churches whose pews were held as private property, were two which were opened in New York, 1835.

The experiment for increasing the power of the speaker's voice, by placing a paraboloid over the pulpit, so successfully made in Trinity church, in New York, under the supervision of Professor C. W. Hackley, is to be repeated in several other churches. The cost, put up, is about a hundred and fifty dollars.

A TRICK WORTH THE PERFORMANCE.—A young man was studying in college. One afternoon he walked out with one of his instructors, and they chanced to see an old pair of shoes lying by the side of the road, which appeared to belong to a poor man at work close by. "Let us have a little amusement at his expense," said the student. "Suppose we hide these shoes, and conceal ourselves in the bushes to watch his perplexity when he cannot find them." "I can think of a better trick than that," said the instructor. "You are rich, and suppose you put a silver dollar in the toe of each shoe, and then we will hide." The young man did so.

The poor man finished his work soon, and went to put on his shoes. You can imagine his surprise, when he stooped down to take out a pebble, as he supposed, from the toe, and found it to be a hard dollar, and then his absolute perplexity and astonishment, when he found a similar one in the other shoe. His feelings overcame him; he fell upon his knees, looked up to heaven, and uttered aloud a fervent thanksgiving in which he thanked a kind Providence for sending some unknown hand to save from perishing his sick and helpless wife and his children without bread.

Do you wonder that the young man stood in his hiding place deeply affected, and his eyes filled with tears? Young friends, when you want to enjoy real fun, real pleasure at witnessing the perplexity of others, see if you cannot in some way imitate the student. Such tricks are worth performing.

At the opening of Parliament Queen Victoria wore robes of state, her dress being composed of silver tissue, striped with gold, and a superb train of crimson velvet, lined with ermine and embroidered with gold, which was carried by the ladies-in-waiting and two pages. On her head was a demi-crown of brilliants, and with it were worn en suite a necklace, ear-rings, stomacher, and bracelets of diamonds. The Prince Consort wore his uniform as Field-Marshal with the riband of the Garter.

The Persian Ambassador, who was the first diplomat to arrive, created quite a sensation in the house, which was by no means lessened by this distinguished Oriental's indecision as to where to go. He was finally relieved from his embarrassment by being shown to his proper seat. His costume was rich, quaint, and peculiar, his breast being covered with jewels of exceeding brilliancy, and his features almost concealed under a fur covered steeple hat.

The most novel invention on exhibition is certainly the air self-winding clock of R. Hitchcock, of Watertown. If not perpetual motion itself, it is as near it as approach is likely to be made. We understand the model has run eight months without winding or repair, and was then taken down for removal to the Patent Office. The motive power is obtained from a wheel placed in the ventilator of the room, where a sufficient current is always found; this, connected with the clock-work, keeps it continually wound up. So satisfactory is the working of the principle, and so confident are experienced mechanics of its practical value, that the Boston Watch Company are manufacturing a large number of the clocks.

KIND TO THE POOR.—Miss Burdett Coutts, a lady who is foremost in every benevolent undertaking, has erected in London a number of dwellings for the poor. These houses are large and convenient, while the rents are fixed at a sum which will yield 3 per cent. on the outlay. Up to the present time the results have been most satisfactory; the buildings are always tenanted, while the tenants are orderly in conduct and regular in paying their rents.

JAPANESE SOAP!

JOHN F. GUNKEL & CO.'S
DETERSIVE AND ERASIVE
SOAP,
Louisville, Ky.

WE offer this Soap to the public with the full assurance that, if the directions given are carried out, it will save time labor and money. All we ask is a fair trial; then let it stand upon its own merits. Among other advantages of this over other Washing Soaps, the following may be mentioned:
1. This Soap is warranted not to injure the fabric.
2. But one-half the time and labor will be required to do a washing by using this Soap in preference to any other.
3. The clothes need but little rubbing, and, in most cases, no boiling.
4. For washing hands it is greatly superior to any common Soap, as it does not chap, but has a tendency to soften the skin.
6. It cannot be surpassed for removing Ink, Tar, and Grease Spots, also for cleaning Paints.
7. The superiority of this Soap consists in its not containing any excess of Alkalies, and the materials used rendering it more mild than any other known Washing Soap.
7. It is undoubtedly the best Family Soap extant, and is warranted to give perfect satisfaction, or the money will be refunded.
☞All orders sent to the undersigned through the postoffice, or given our wagons, will meet with prompt attention. [el? dtf] JOHN F. GUNKEL & CO.

THE TRUE AND GENUINE

Its use, if fairly tried, will soon restore the tone of the digestive organs, invigorate the blood, give general rotundity to the figure, and add energy to the mind and nervous system. Its value has been remarkably evinced by its wonderful restorative powers, when ordinary tonics had been vainly exhausted. It affords nourishment to the body when no other can be borne, and furnishes the frame with fat in a truly remarkable manner.

For CONSUMPTION and BRONCHITIS,
For SCROFULA in all its dire torments,
